Vivekamārtaṇḍa — Dating and Manuscripts

Exact Quotations, Colophons, Termini, and Manuscript Basis

> Key Distinction and Textual Relationship: Under the title Vivekamārtaṇḍa (in addition to identically named Vedānta works), there exist two closely related yet philologically distinct corpora that are frequently conflated:
>
> 1. Viśvarūpadeva's compilation in 6 chapters (प्रबोध, TSS No. CXIX, 1935; repr. KSRI 2025), combining didacticism, kālajñāna / divination, and ṣaḍaṅgayoga — whose 6th chapter (Yoga-sādhana, 197 verses) almost entirely reproduces the yogic Vivekamārtaṇḍa of Gorakṣanātha (a fact already demonstrated by Swami Kuvalayananda and Dr. S. A. Shukla in 1958).
>
> 2. The early haṭhayoga poem of Gorakṣanātha (Vivekamārtaṇḍa) (12th–13th century CE, ~171–201 verses), originally titled Vivekamārtaṇḍa, and later also transmitted under the titles Gorakṣapaddhati, Yogamārtaṇḍa, Gorakṣasaṃhitā, and (due to conflation with another, distinct 14th-century text) Gorakṣaśataka.

A. The Vivekamārtaṇḍa of Viśvarūpadeva (Trivandrum 1935 / KSRI 2025)

A1. K. Sambasiva Sastri — Preface to Trivandrum Sanskrit Series No. CXIX (1935)

Data verified directly against the edition text in /home/user/books/Vivekamartanda_Visvarupa_Deva_1935.txt.

Author's dating (Sastri places him no later than the 7th–8th century CE, while simultaneously mentioning ~1,000 years ago):

> "Taking all these facts into consideration, I think that Viśvarūpa cannot be placed later than 7th century A.D."
>
> — K. Sambasiva Sastri, Preface, p. 3
>
> "If this surmise [the identification of Rajandhipura with Radhanpur] is correct, the author may be said to have flourished some 1000 years ago."
>
> — K. Sambasiva Sastri, Preface, pp. 2–3

In the Sanskrit preface (Nivedanā, p. 4):

> "सर्वथा क्रिस्त्वब्दीयसप्तमशतकादर्वाचीनोऽयं विश्वरूपदेव इति सिद्धम् ॥"
>
> ("In any case, it is established that this Viśvarūpadeva is no later than the seventh century of the Christian era.")

Arguments advanced by Sambasiva Sastri:

- Bhartṛhari (Subhāṣita / Vairāgyaśataka 49: āyur varṣaśataṃ nṛṇāṃ parimitaṃ...) supposedly expanded Viśvarūpadeva's verse (Viveka p. 8, śl. 13: āyur varṣaśataṃ tāvat...), rather than vice versa, because Bhartṛhari exhibits "a modern look in common with the Kāvya literature".
- The Adhyātma-Rāmāyaṇa (Araṇyakāṇḍa: yathā vyāla-galastho 'pi bheko bhogān apekṣate) supposedly borrowed from Viśvarūpadeva (Viveka p. 9, śl. 18: dandaśūka-galasthasya dardurasya sthitir yathā).
- Overall "archaic simplicity" and uncorrupted names of ancient towns predating the Muslim conquests.

Authorial details from colophons and concluding verses (pp. 75–77):

> "श्रीमत्पराशरकुले महति प्रसूतो योऽयं कृती शतगुणो गुणिनां वरिष्ठः ।
>
> तस्यात्मजोऽकृत रजन्धिपुराधिवासो ग्रन्थं शुभाय भविनां भुवि विश्वरूपः ॥" (p. 76)
>
> "इति शतगुणाचार्यतनयश्रीविश्वरूपदेवविरचिते विवेकमार्ताण्डे योगसाधनं नाम षष्ठः प्रबोधः ॥" (p. 75; analogous colophons appear at the end of each of the 6 chapters)

> "अजानता यत् किल शास्त्रमार्गं ग्रन्थो मयाकारि नवप्रबोधः ।
> विवेकभानुः स मतो नराणां क्षन्तव्यमेतत् कविभिः समस्तम् ॥" (p. 77)
> *(In Nivedanā, p. 3, Sastri explains: "नवशब्दो न सङ्ख्यापरः । षष्ठप्रबोधपरिसमाप्तौ..." — nava here means "new," not "nine," since there are only six chapters in total.)*

Summary from the colophon: the author is Viśvarūpadeva, of the Parāśara lineage (Parāśara-kula), son of the renowned Śataguṇācārya, residing in Rajandhipura (the Director of BORI, in a letter to Sastri, conjectured Radhanpur in the former Bombay Presidency, whereas JETIR 2022 places it in Maharashtra without citing a source).

Manuscript basis of TSS 119 (3 palm-leaf manuscripts ~200 years old, i.e., ca. the 1730s):

> "The edition of this work is based on three palmleaf manuscripts. The first is an incomplete copy belonging to the library of Edapalli Valia Raja, The second is also an incomplete one obtained from the library of Brahmasri Muthu Sastrial, Kanyakumari, The third is a complete copy obtained from the library of Brahmaśrī Kudallur Brahmadattan Namburippad. All the manuscripts are about 200 years old and are preserved in good condition..."
> — K. Sambasiva Sastri, Preface, p. 3

The same list in the Nivedanā (p. 4):

1. Library of Edapalli Valia Raja (Kerala) — incomplete (असमग्रा).
2. Library of Brahmasri Muthu Sastrial, Kanyakumari (कन्याकुमारीस्थब्रह्मश्रीमत्थुशास्तृग्रन्थशालायाः) — incomplete (असमग्रा).
3. Library of Brahmaśrī Kudallur Brahmadattan Namburippad (कूडल्लूर्ब्रह्मदत्तनम्पूतिरिग्रन्थशालिया) — complete.

Note on the publication date of TSS 119: the Sanskrit title page gives the year Kollam १११० / 1935 (also recorded in catalogues as 14-04-1110), whereas the Sanskrit Nivedanā is signed by Sastri on अनन्तशयनम् , १४-४-११११ (14 Dhanu 1111 Kollam Era = December 1935 CE, since Kollam 1111 began in August–September 1935). The critical apparatus consists of sporadic footnote variants labeled क / ख / ग without any stemmatic description.

A2. Proof of Viśvarūpadeva's Compilatory Character: Swami Kuvalayananda & Dr. S. A. Shukla (1958)

In their critical introduction to Gorakṣaśatakam (Lonavla: Kaivalyadhama, 1958, §V, pp. 13–15), Swami Kuvalayananda and Dr. S. A. Shukla directly examined the relationship between Viśvarūpadeva's Vivekamārtaṇḍa (TSS 119) and Gorakṣanātha's yogic text, decisively refuting K. Sambasiva Sastri's early dating:

> "So far as borrowing is concerned, the case of the book called विवेकमार्तण्ड attributed to विश्वरूपदेव is still more remarkable. The work consists of six chapters and the 6th chapter practically (with a few variations in the number of verses and readings) is identical with the entire text, published as Goraksapaddhati by the Laxmi Venkateshwar Press, Bombay or 'Yoga Martanda' included in 'the Siddha Siddhanta Paddhati and other works of Natha Yogis' published by the Poona Oriental Book House, Poona."
> — Kuvalayananda & Shukla 1958, p. 14
>
> "The learned editor, K. Sambasiva Sāstri, in his introduction to the book, says that the author विश्वरूपदेव cannot be placed later than the 7th century A.D. If this statement is taken to be correct, Goraksanāth (the author of G. S.) who can't be pushed back before the 9th century A.D. evidently, becomes a borrower from this विश्वरूपदेव. We must, therefore, look into the matter more closely to examine this view of the editor of 'विवेकमार्तण्ड'."

>
> "In the first place, we note that the editor is not particular or precise in his remarks. For example, his statement, 'The author may be said to have flourished some 1,000 years ago,' when placed against the date of the publication of the book, viz., 1935 would appear to place the author in about the 10th century A.D. ... If we examine the nature of its contents, we find that the book विवेकमार्तण्ड is of the nature of a compilation."
>
>
> "Within the book itself, we have repetitions of a whole set of verses, (vide verses 42-51 from the 3rd chapter and verses 177-186 from the 6th chapter). Compare verse 1 of the 5th chapter and verse 2 of the 6th chapter. It is rather strange that the author while writing the 2nd verse of the 6th chapter should have forgotten that he has written the same verse as the 1st verse of the immediately preceding 5th chapter. That the author is in the habit of quoting entire verses from other sources is seen by looking to verse No. 40 of the 5th chapter — 'भिद्यते हृदयग्रन्थिः छिद्यन्ते सर्वसंशयाः क्षीयन्ते चास्य कर्माणि तस्मिन् दृष्टे परावरे' (मुण्ड, २.२.८). No indication is given that it is a quotation."
> — Kuvalayananda & Shukla 1958, pp. 14–15
>
> "In view of all this, the work विवेकमार्तण्ड being of the nature of a compilation appears to be of doubtful authenticity and so विश्वरूपदेव to whom it is ascribed cannot be accepted as the author of the text included in the 6th chapter of that book."
>
> — Kuvalayananda & Shukla 1958, p. 15

Direct collation against the text of TSS 119 (`/home/user/books/Vivekamartanda_Visvarupa_Deva_1935.txt`) confirms Kuvalayananda and Shukla's observations verbatim:

- 5th Prabodha, verse 1 (p. 48): एतद्विमुक्तिसोपानमेतत् कालस्य वञ्चनम् । यद् व्यावृत्तं मनो भोगादासक्तं परमात्मनि ॥ १ ॥ — and almost immediately in the 6th Prabodha, verse 2 (p. 53): एतन्मुक्तेश्च सोपानमेतत् कालस्य वञ्चनम् । यन्निवृत्तं मनो भोगादासक्तं परमात्मनि ॥ २ ॥.
- 3rd Prabodha, verses 42–51 (pp. 24–25) are repeated in the 6th Prabodha, verses 177–186 (pp. 73–75).
- The 6th Prabodha (योगसाधनं नाम षष्ठः प्रबोधः, 197 verses, pp. 53–76) opens with the characteristic incipit of Vivekamārtaṇḍa / Gorakṣapaddhati (द्विजसेवितशाखस्य श्रुतिकल्पतरोः फलम्...), teaches six-limbed yoga (आसनं प्राणसंरोधः प्रत्याहारोऽथ धारणा । ध्यानं समाधिरेतानि योगाङ्गानि भवन्ति षट् ॥ ५ ॥), two āsanas (Siddhāsana, Kamalāsana), 6 cakras, Kuṇḍalinī, 5 mudrās and bandhas (Mahāmudrā, Nabhomudrā/Khecarī, Uḍḍiyāna, Jālandhara, Mūlabandha), the five dhāraṇās, and samādhi, while omitting Gorakṣanātha from the colophon and replacing the ending with Viśvarūpadeva's own authorial verses.

A3. JETIR 2022 — Review of "Vivekamaartanda Kaalajnana" (with Internal Contradictions)

Janapriya Kesavan, Ranjith Kumar Shetty, Sri Nagesh K.A., "A Review on the Unpublished Manuscript 'Vivekamaartanda Kaalajnana'", JETIR 9(6), June 2022, pp. g801–g808.

Contradictions and conflations in the article:

- The authors call "Vivekamaartanda Kalajnana" "an unpublished manuscript" ("an unpublished manuscript"), even though their own Table 1 (compiled from the New Catalogus Catalogorum, Vol. XXX, ed. Siniruddha Dash, Madras, 2013, p. 10) lists the printed edition TSS 119 (1935) and summarizes the exact same 6 prabodhas, focusing on the 4th (Kālavijñāna).
- While repeating K. Sambasiva Sastri's dating (7th–8th century CE), they contradictorily assert that Viśvarūpadeva's text shows influence from Gorakṣanātha's work of the same title, thereby pushing Gorakṣanātha back into the 7th–8th century CE as well:

> "The Manuscript 'Vivekamaartanda' was authored by 'Vishwarupadeva' and text was composed around 7th – 8th century AD."

> — JETIR 2022, Conclusion, p. g807
>
> "It was found that few quotes related to aasana, praanasamrodha, pratyaahara, dhaarana, dhyaana, and samaadhi which are similar to the 'Vivekamartanda' of Gorakanath. The time period of Gorakanath is also ascertained around 7th – 8th century AD. As the time period Of 'Vivekamaartanda' of 'Vishwarupadeva' seems to have influence from text of Gorakanath's 'Vivekamaartanda', taking these entire facts author can not be placed later than 7th – 8th century A.D."

A4. Theodor Aufrecht, Catalogus Catalogorum (1891–1903) — Distinguishing Homonymous Works

According to the entries in Catalogus Catalogorum (Cologne Digital Sanskrit Dictionaries / GRETIL):

1. Vivekamārtaṇḍa — vedānta. Kh. 89. Oppert. 6206. — by Sadguṇācārya. Kh. 89.
2. Vivekamārtaṇḍa — Peters. 1, 119. Synonym: Yogapradīpa.
3. Vivekamārtaṇḍa — yoga, by Gorakṣanātha: Rādh. 17.; yoga by Gorakṣa: Ak 730.
4. Vivekamārtaṇḍa — by Rāmeśvara Bhaṭṭa: Hall p. 13. Bik. 568 (and [commentary]). NW. 414.
5. Vivekamārtaṇḍa — jy. [jyotiṣa] by Viśvarūpadeva, son of Śataguṇācārya: Bik. 308.
6. Vivekamārtaṇḍa — (?): Śukranāḍī jy.

Already in Aufrecht's late-19th-century catalogue, Viśvarūpadeva's Vivekamārtaṇḍa (Bik. 308, classified under jyotiṣa) is clearly separated from the yogic Vivekamārtaṇḍa of Gorakṣa (Ak 730, Rādh. 17, Peters. 1, 119) and from the Vedāntic treatises of Sadguṇācārya and Rāmeśvara Bhaṭṭa (Bik. 568).

B. The Vivekamārtaṇḍa of Gorakṣanātha (Hatha Yoga Project: Mallinson, Birch, Westoby)

B1. Dating (12th–13th Centuries CE) and Exact Termini

Current scholarly consensus — 12th–13th centuries CE (likely 13th century):

> "The twelfth-to thirteenth-century Vivekamārtaṇḍa is attributed to Gorakṣanātha in its colophons."
>
> — Ruth Westoby, The Body in Early Haṭha Yoga (SOAS PhD thesis, 2024), "The Vivekamārtaṇḍa and Haṭha Yoga"

> "The colophon attributes the Vivekamārtaṇḍa or 'Sun of Discernment' to Lord Gorakṣa. The text is 12th–13th-century..."
>
> — Ruth Westoby, Sanskrit Reading Room (SOAS), 11 Oct 2019 (report on seminar with James Mallinson)
>
> "The Vivekamārtaṇḍa, which is also likely to date to the 13th century, redacts four of the Amṛtasiddhi's verses into three."
>
> — James Mallinson, "The Amṛtasiddhi: Haṭhayoga's Tantric Buddhist Source Text", in Śaivism and the Tantric Traditions (Brill, 2020), p. 412; n. 13: "AS 7.16–20 ≈ Vivekamārtaṇḍa 90–92."
>
> "Early texts on haṭhayoga such as the c. thirteenth-century Dattātreyayogaśāstra and Vivekamārtaṇḍa declare that there are a huge number of āsanas..."
> — James Mallinson & Mark Singleton, Roots of Yoga (Penguin Classics, 2017), Ch. 5 (Āsana)

(In earlier work, Jason Birch, "The Meaning of haṭha in Early Haṭhayoga", JAOS 131.4, 2011, p. 528, cautiously dated the text to "the thirteenth or fourteenth century", whereas by 2017–2024 Mallinson, Birch, and Westoby converged on the 12th–13th centuries / ca. 13th century CE.)

Terminus post quem* (lower bound) — 11th century (Amṛtasiddhi):

- Internal redaction of the Vajrayāna Buddhist Amṛtasiddhi (11th c.): AS 7.16–20 ≈ Vivekamārtaṇḍa 90–92 (Mallinson 2020, p. 412, n. 13).
- Parallels with the 13th-century Dattātreyayogaśāstra (DYS 34–38 // Viv 5–8 — 8,400,000 āsanas; Mallinson & Singleton 2017; Birch 2020).

Terminus ad quem* (upper bound) — before 1363 CE and before 1400 CE:

1. Śārṅgadharapaddhati* (1363 CE):
   - Śārṅgadhara's great Sanskrit anthology compiled in 1363 CE (Christian Bouy, Les Nātha-yogin et les Upaniṣads, 1994, p. 25; Birch 2011, p. 528 n. 9: "The Vivekamārtaṇḍa's terminus ad quem is the Khecarīvidyā (Mallinson 2007: 4) or the Śārṅgadharapaddhati (Bouy 1994: 25).").
   - Mallinson (Brill's Encyclopedia of Hinduism, Vol. 3, 2011, "Haṭha Yoga", p. 771): Śārṅgadharapaddhati (v. 4372) divides haṭha yoga into two types and identifies Gorakṣa's method with the six-limbed yoga (āsana, prāṇāyāma, pratyāhāra, dhāraṇā, dhyāna, samādhi) taught in the Vivekamārtaṇḍa.
2. Khecarīvidyā* (before 1400 CE):
   - Directly mentions the Vivekamārtaṇḍa by title at 1.14cd:

> "The Khecarīvidyā is not among the earliest works in this corpus, because it was composed after the Vivekamārtaṇḍa.74 ... 74 Khecarīvidyā (1.14cd) mentions the Vivekamārtaṇḍa."
>
> — James Mallinson, in The Oxford History of Hinduism: Hindu Practice (2020), p. 198 & n. 74

Later dated borrowings and references (attesting the text's authority):

- Śivayogapradīpikā of Cennasadāśivayogin (ca. 15th c.): adapts Viv 42ab, 85, 144–152 (Keith Cantú, A Lamp on Śivayoga, Harvard PhD, 2023, §4.8.3, pp. 134, 137–138).
- Haṭhapradīpikā of Svātmārāma (ca. 1450 CE): direct verse borrowings (HP 2.15 = Viv 123; HP 3.101 = Viv 56; HP 4.108–109, 113 = Viv 168, 166, 169 — Birch 2011; Mallinson 2011, 2014).
- Yogacintāmaṇi of Godāvaramiśra (16th c.) / Śivānanda Sarasvatī (17th c.): cites by name "the Vivekamārtaṇḍa's Ṣaḍaṅgayoga" (Kaivalyadhama MS 9784, f. 6; Birch 2011, n. 95).
- Haṭharatnāvalī of Śrīnivāsa (17th c.): 3.7 (~ Viv 8–10) and 3.77 rewrites Viv 92 (Birch 2020, p. 461, n. 33).
- Yoga Upaniṣads (17th–18th c., South Indian redaction — Bouy 1994; Birch 2011, nn. 87–89): Dhyānabindūpaniṣad (67 = Viv 56, 85cd–86ab = Viv 75), Śāṇḍilyopaniṣad (7.6 = Viv 123), Yogacūḍāmaṇyupaniṣad (39 = Viv 56, 118 = Viv 123), as well as Gheraṇḍasaṃhitā (3.51 = Viv 56), Pampāmāhātmya, Brahmānanda's commentary Jyotsnā (1.151, 3.105), and Śivopādhyāya on Vijñānabhairava v. 81.

B2. Scale of the Manuscript Tradition — Over 200 Manuscripts

> "The more than 200 manuscripts of the Vivekamārtaṇḍa give many names, one of which, the Gorakṣaśataka, is also the name of a different text Dr Mallinson is editing. The Vivekamārtaṇḍa is the only text being edited by the Hatha Yoga Project of which it has not been possible to collate all the witnesses."
>
> — Ruth Westoby, Sanskrit Reading Room (SOAS), 11 Oct 2019
>
> "There are more than 200 manuscripts of the Vivekamārtaṇḍa under various names including Gorakṣaśataka. The Vivekamārtaṇḍa has between 171 and 201 verses although a late version attempts a 100-verse précis, perhaps to accommodate the name in that context, the Gorakṣaśataka."
>
> — Ruth Westoby, The Body in Early Haṭha Yoga (2024)

B3. Earliest Dated Manuscript — 1477 CE, Baroda Acc. No. 4110

> "the earliest manuscript Dr Mallinson has studied was copied in 1477 by a Jain ascetic in Rajasthan, south of Jodhpur."
>
> "Last verso of the Vivekamārtaṇḍa, Central Library Baroda 4110 (saṃvat 1534)"

> "The earliest known manuscript of the Vivekamārtaṇḍa was copied in 1477 by a Jain ascetic in Rajasthan, south of Jodhpur, thus just a few years before the earliest known manuscript of the Haṭhapradīpikā (dated 1497)."
>
> — Ruth Westoby, The Body in Early Haṭha Yoga (2024)
>
> "The earliest recension of the Vivekamārtaṇḍa—which is found in a manuscript written in 1477 CE and predates that text's being called the Gorakṣaśataka by nearly two hundred years—has 173 verses..."
> — James Mallinson, "The Original Gorakṣaśataka", in Yoga in Practice, ed. D. G. White (Princeton UP, 2012), p. 263

Catalogue entry in Baroda (An Alphabetical List of Manuscripts in the Oriental Institute, Baroda, Vol. I, Gaekwad's Oriental Series No. XCVII, 1942, pp. 624–625):

- Serial No. 73, Acc. No. 4110: विवेकमार्तण्डः (गोरक्षनाथ) — 173 granthas, dated Saṃ. 1534 (1477 CE).
- Under Serial No. 72, a second Baroda manuscript is recorded: Acc. No. 2081 (विवेकमार्तण्डः, Gorakṣanātha).
- Official shelfmark reference in Mallinson and Birch:
  - Vivekamārtaṇḍa of Gorakṣadeva, Oriental Institute of Baroda Library / Maharaja Sayajirao Oriental Institute, Central Library, Baroda (Vadodara), Acc. No. 4110 (cited as f.3v l.11 for v. 87 in Birch 2013/2020).
- Jason Birch (The Amanaska, PhD thesis, Oxford, 2013, §1.3.4) also notes that one of the oldest Vivekamārtaṇḍa manuscripts lacks the opening and closing frame verses.

Other significant North Indian and early witnesses:

- Bikaner (RORI), Jain manuscript titled *Yogāsanam: RORI R635Y8/15294 (photocopy housed at Kaivalyadhama Library, Lonavla; Birch, HSSA 6, 2018).

B4. Recensions and Textual Extent

> "Mallinson identifies a long recension in his forthcoming critical edition that he dates to the seventeenth-century."
> — Westoby 2024
>
> "Pratyāhāra or 'withdrawal' is detailed in verses 103-131 of the 173-verse text."
>
> — Sanskrit Reading Room, 11 Oct 2019

Summary stratification of recensions:

1. Early recension (1477 CE manuscript, Baroda 4110) — 173 verses.
2. Expanded / long recension (dated by Mallinson to ca. 17th century) — 171 to 201 verses (and up to 213 verses in late North Indian Gorakṣapaddhati / Yogamārtaṇḍa manuscripts, closely matched by the 6th Prabodha of Viśvarūpadeva's Vivekamārtaṇḍa at 197 verses).
3. Late 100-verse précis titled Gorakṣaśataka — 100–101 verses (artificially abridged to justify the title śataka, "a century [of verses]").

B5. Manuscript Basis of Previous Editions

1) Swami Kuvalayananda & Dr. S. A. Shukla (Lonavla: Kaivalyadhama, 1958) — Gorakṣaśatakam (38 manuscripts)

According to the editors' introduction (pp. i–ii, 1–10), they assembled 38 manuscripts and transcripts:

- 35 manuscripts of the Vivekamārtaṇḍa / Gorakṣapaddhati family (containing the programmatic six-limbed yoga verse आसनं प्राणसंरोधः...):
  - BORI, Pune (P1–P11) — 11 manuscripts (P1 includes the Sanskrit commentary Bālaprabodhinī);
  - Royal Asiatic Society, Calcutta (C1–C5) — 5 manuscripts (C1, C2 in Bengali script; C4 contains the continuation of Lakṣmīnārāyaṇa's Bālaprabodhinī + Hindi translation);
  - Oriental Library, Baroda (B) — 1 manuscript (213 verses);
  - Saraswati Bhavan Govt. Sanskrit Library, Benares (Bn1–Bn13) — 13 manuscripts (Bn6 in Bengali script);
  - India Office Library, London (L1–L3) — 3 manuscripts: L1 = Keith 5765 / I.O. 1664 B (101 verses — made the basis of the 1958 edition), L2 = Keith 5766 / I.O. 36492 B (1894 copy made from the 1891 Calcutta print), L3 = Keith 5767 / I.O. 3518 b (palm leaf, Oriya script);
  - Adyar Library (Ad) — 1 manuscript (Devanāgarī transcript from Grantha, 200 verses with the Sanskrit commentary Yogataraṅgiṇī);
  - Anup Sanskrit Library, Bikaner (Bk) — 1 manuscript (213 verses).
- 16 of these 35 manuscripts are dated, the three oldest (ca. 300 years old in 1958) being Bn4 (Saṃvat 1696 = 1639 CE), P11 (Saṃvat 1712 = 1655 CE), and Bn7 (Saṃvat 1712 = 1655 CE); the remainder are later (Bn6 Śaka 1690 [= 1768 CE], Bn2 Saṃvat 1760, P4 1791, Bn13 Saṃvat 1800, Bn5 Saṃvat 1810, P7 Śaka 1744, Bn3 Śaka 1746, P8 Saṃvat 1879, Bn8 Saṃvat 1899, B Saṃvat 1939, P1 Saṃvat 1943, C4 Saṃvat 1943–44, L2 1894 CE).
- Important finding by Kuvalayananda and Shukla: Pune MS P1 (100 verses) and Calcutta MS C4 (100 verses), sharing Lakṣmīnārāyaṇa's commentary Bālaprabodhinī, are in fact the two halves of one 200-verse text (Gorakṣapaddhati, Lakṣmī Veṅkaṭeśvar Press, Bombay, Śaka 1855 / 1933 CE).
- Methodological error of 1958 (corrected by Mallinson in 2012): Kuvalayananda and Shukla mistook the 101-verse London witness L1 (I.O. 1664 B) for the "authentic Gorakṣaśataka" and dismissed the 157–213-verse witnesses as later "inflation"; modern philology has proved the reverse: the full Vivekamārtaṇḍa (~173 verses, 1477 CE) is primary, while L1 is its late 100-verse précis. Moreover, 3 South Indian manuscripts rejected by Kuvalayananda and Shukla (Tn Thanjavur, Mn Mandaleshwar, Md Madras GOML R 2881(P)) actually preserve (at least Tn and Md) an altogether different text — the true "Original Gorakṣaśataka" (ca. 14th c.)!

2) Fausta Nowotny (Köln: K. A. Nowotny, 1976, Dokumente der Geistesgeschichte 3, 165 pp.) — Das Gorakṣaśataka

> "In 1976 Fausta Nowotny's edition of the Gorakṣaśataka was published. It was based on only four relatively late (seventeenth-century) manuscripts; in this book we have based our translations from this text on the readings of a manuscript from 1477 CE not used by Nowotny and which calls the text Vivekamārtaṇḍa."

> — James Mallinson & Mark Singleton, Roots of Yoga (2017), Introduction, n. 47

(Note: neither the cited articles by Mallinson/Birch/Westoby nor available reviews disclose the four specific library shelfmarks of Nowotny's 17th-century manuscripts.)

3) Other Printed Editions and Commentaries of Vivekamārtaṇḍa

- George Weston Briggs, Gorakhnāth and the Kānphaṭa Yogīs (1938): transliteration and translation of the first 101 verses from Pune MS P1 (= first śataka of Gorakṣapaddhati).
- Kalyani Mallik (ed.), The Siddha Siddhānta Paddhati and Other Works of Nath Yogis (Poona: Poona Oriental Book House, 1954): edition of the 200-verse version under the title Yogamārtaṇḍa.
- Rāmalāl Śrīvāstava (ed.), Vivekamārtaṇḍa (Praṇetā Śivagorakṣa Mahāyogī Gorakṣanātha) (Gorakhpur: Gorakhnāth Mandir, 1983), as well as editions by Gorakhnāth Mandir (Haridwar) and Svāmī Keśavānand Yogasaṃsthān (Delhi) with Hindi translation.
- Jan K. Brzezinski (ed. & trans.), Yoga-Taraṅgiṇī: A Rare Commentary on Gorakṣa-śataka (Delhi: Motilal Banarsidass, 2015): edition of the Yogataraṅgiṇī commentary (17th–18th c.) on the 200-verse Vivekamārtaṇḍa.

B6. Differences from the "Original Gorakṣaśataka" (ca. 14th c.) and Status of the Critical Edition

To resolve all lingering confusion, James Mallinson ("The Original Gorakṣaśataka", 2012; Brill's Encyclopedia 2011) demonstrated that the true Gorakṣaśataka (~100 verses, dated ca. 13th–14th c. / around 1400 CE, teaching śakticālana, kuṇḍalinī, and kumbhakas, without ṣaḍaṅgayoga) is an entirely separate work, preserved in only 3 South Indian manuscripts:

- Government Oriental Manuscripts Library (GOML), Chennai (Madras): MS No. R 7874 (and IFP transcript T1095 from 2831(p) / R 2881(P));
- Thanjavur Maharaja Serfoji's Sarasvati Mahal Library: MS No. B.6389 (Call No. 6717) (breaks off at 77c).

Status of the critical edition of Gorakṣanātha's Vivekamārtaṇḍa:

- Hatha Yoga Project (SOAS, ERC grant 2015–2021): Vivekamārtaṇḍa is scheduled as a forthcoming critical edition by James Mallinson & Jason Birch (Collection Indologie, Hatha Yoga Series, Pondicherry: IFI / EFEO).
- For the October 2019 London reading seminar and Ruth Westoby's PhD dissertation (2024, Appendix 3, pp. 307–313, sample verses from the version dated 11 April 2022), James Mallinson's working *draft critical edition was used, grounded primarily in Baroda MS 4110 (1477 CE).

Section C. Complete Corpus of Verses on Āsana and Pīṭha in the Vivekamārtaṇḍa

Methodological Note and Sigla

Collected below are all verses across both Vivekamārtaṇḍa corpora that contain injunctions regarding āsana / pīṭha (postures), references to specific postures (siddhāsana, padmāsana / kamalāsana / baddhapadmāsana, sukhāsana, baddhāsana), or somatic bodily positions related to postural practice. To ensure zero omissions, the corpus is divided into three parts:

- Part I (Nos. 1–7): programmatic and classificatory verses on āsanas, the count of 84 pīṭhas, and detailed descriptions of specific postures (siddhāsana, padmāsana, sukhāsana / dhyānamudrā).
- Part II (Nos. 8–17): verses prescribing posture (baddhāsana, padmāsana, baddhapadmāsana) within meditation, awakening Kuṇḍalinī, mahāmudrā, oṃkāra-japa, nāḍīśodhana, stages of prāṇāyāma, sealing the cranial apertures, and dhāraṇā, as well as those stating the therapeutic fruit of āsana.
- Part III (Nos. 18–21): borderline and non-āsana occurrences — the complete 5-verse cycle on viparītakaraṇī within pratyāhāra (6.121–125), other somatic postures without the term āsana (supine nectar-drinking, the praṇāmavidhinā variant reading), lexical "false friends" (āsane = "at the anus" in the list of 10 nāḍīs, kamalāsana = epithet of Brahmā, lohitapīṭha in 4th-Prabodha oneiromancy), and entries in the Sanskrit table of contents of TSS 119.

Textual witnesses consulted (verified against page scans and primary editions):

- TSS 119 — Vivekamārtaṇḍa of Viśvarūpadeva (ed. K. Sāmbaśiva Śāstrī, Trivandrum, 1935; visually verified against scans of pp. 47, 52–74 and footnote apparatus of MSS क, ख, ग).
- Baroda 4110 (Viv) — oldest witness of Gorakṣanātha's Vivekamārtaṇḍa (1477 CE, Baroda Acc. No. 4110), selectively cited from James Mallinson's working draft critical edition (11 April 2022, as quoted in Ruth Westoby, The Body in Early Haṭha Yoga, SOAS, 2024, Appendix 3) and Roots of Yoga (2017).
- Mac — The Vivekamārtaṇḍa of Gorakṣanātha, ed./trans. Śrī Maccidānanda Nātha (2025), reproducing the long 203-verse North Indian recension (based on the Yoga Nath e-text, closely aligned with Rāmalāl Śrīvāstava's 1983 Gorakhpur edition).
- GorS(1) — Gorakṣaśataka in the critical edition of Swami Kuvalayananda & Dr. S. A. Shukla (Lonavla: Kaivalyadhama, 1958; 101 verses from the précis L1 = I.O. 1664 B; GRETIL e-text).
- GorS(2) — Gorakṣaśataka in G. W. Briggs (1938; 101 verses = first śataka of Gorakṣapaddhati from Pune MS P1; GRETIL e-text).
- YT — 200-verse recension of Gorakṣaśataka / Vivekamārtaṇḍa with the Yogataraṅgiṇī commentary (Adyar MS IX.F.48 / BHU CN 4927, two śatakas of 100 verses each).
- Intertextual parallels: YCUp (Yogacūḍāmaṇi Upaniṣad), DhBUp (Dhyānabindu Upaniṣad), HYP (Haṭhapradīpikā), GhS (Gheraṇḍasaṃhitā).

Part I. Primary Verses on Āsanas and Pīṭhas (Classification and Posture Descriptions)

1. Six Limbs of Yoga (Āsana Placed First)

1. Verse number in each recension:

- TSS 119: Prabodha 6.5 (p. 53)
- Mac: 6 (pp. 3–4)
- Baroda 4110: present (trans. in Roots of Yoga 1.4.7)
- GorS(1): 4
- GorS(2): 7
- YT: 1.7
- Parallels: YCUp 2, Dhyānabindu Upaniṣad

2. Original Devanāgarī text (TSS 119):

> आसनं प्राणसंरोधः प्रत्याहारोऽथ धारणा ।
> ध्यानं समाधिरेतानि योगाङ्गानि भवन्ति षट् ॥ ५ ॥

(Major variants in other recensions: prāṇasaṃyāmaḥ instead of prāṇasaṃrodhaḥ in GorS(1)/GorS(2); pratyāhāraś ca instead of pratyāhāro 'tha in Mac/YT/YCUp; vadanti ṣaṭ instead of bhavanti ṣaṭ in YT.)

3. IAST transliteration (TSS 119):

> āsanaṃ prāṇasaṃrodhaḥ pratyāhāro 'tha dhāraṇā |
> dhyānaṃ samādhir etāni yogāṅgāni bhavanti ṣaṭ || 5 ||

4. English translation:

Posture (āsana), restraint of breath (prāṇasaṃrodha), withdrawal of the senses (pratyāhāra), then concentration (dhāraṇā), meditation (dhyāna), and absorption (samādhi) — these are the six limbs (aṅgas) of yoga.

5. Word-by-word analysis of key terms and grammatical forms:

- आसनम् (āsanam) — nom. sg. n. of āsana- (from root √ās "to sit" + suffix -ana): "seat, sitting posture." The YT commentary defines it etymologically: āsyate anenety āsanaṃ padmādi ("that by which one sits is āsana, beginning with padmāsana").
- प्राणसंरोधः (prāṇasaṃrodhaḥ) — nom. sg. m., tatpuruṣa compound (prāṇa- + saṃrodha- from sam-√rudh): "restraining, halting the prāṇa/breath" (synonymous with prāṇāyāma; GorS(1)/GorS(2) read prāṇasaṃyāmaḥ).
- प्रत्याहारः (pratyāhāraḥ) — nom. sg. m.: "drawing back, inward withdrawal (of the senses)."
- अथ (atha) — indeclinable particle: "then, next, moreover" (replaced by the conjunction ca "and" in Mac/YT).
- धारणा (dhāraṇā) — nom. sg. f.: "fixing/holding (the mind on an object)."
- ध्यानम् (dhyānam) — nom. sg. n.: "meditation, continuous contemplation."
- समाधिः (samādhiḥ) — nom. sg. m.: "absorption, meditative integration."
- एतानि (etāni) — dem. pron. nom. pl. n.: "these."
- योगाङ्गानि (yogāṅgāni) — nom. pl. n., tatpuruṣa (yoga- + aṅga-): "limbs/auxiliaries of yoga."
- भवन्ति (bhavanti) — 3rd pl. pres. parasmaipada of √bhū: "are, become" (YT reads vadanti "they declare").
- षट् (ṣaṭ) — numeral nom. n. from stem ṣaṣ-: "six."

6. Source notes, variant readings, and textual criticism:

- The ṣaḍaṅgayoga (six-limbed yoga) framework here adapts Patañjali's eightfold list (Yogasūtra 2.29) by omitting yama and *niyama, so the sequence opens directly with āsana.

- In MS ख of TSS 119 (p. 53, n. 1: 'माः ॥ आस'), immediately after the final word of v. 1 (सत्तमाः) the text jumps directly to आसनम् (v. 5), meaning vv. 6.2–4 are omitted or transposed there.
- Between vv. 6 and 10, Mac interpolates three verses on ten yamas, ten niyamas, and aṣṭāṅgayoga (Mac 7–9) that directly contradict Mac 6 (forcing Maccidānanda to invoke "hidden symbolism" and sandhābhāṣā in his footnotes). Neither Mac 9 (niyama atha vakṣyāmi...) nor Mac 11 matches TSS 119, GorS(1), or YT. The Yogataraṅgiṇī commentator (YT 1.7) likewise discusses yama/niyama in his prose commentary while keeping the root verse six-limbed.

2. The Number of Āsanas Equals the Number of Living Species

1. Verse number in each recension:

- TSS 119: Prabodha 6.6 (p. 53)
- Mac: 10 (p. 5)
- Baroda 4110: present (see SAET 2024; not excerpted in Westoby App. 3)
- GorS(1): 5
- GorS(2): 8
- YT: 1.8
- Parallels: DhBUp, cf. GhS 2.1

2. Original Devanāgarī text (TSS 119):

> आसनानि च तावन्ति यावन्तो जीवजन्तवः ।
> एतेषां लक्षणं भेदं विजानाति महेश्वरः ॥ ६ ॥

(Footnotes in TSS 119 for MS ख: 2 'या', 3 'त्यो', 4 'जातयः ।', 5 'षामतुलान् भेदान् वि' — i.e., ख reads: आसनानि च यावन्ति तावन्त्यो [or यावत्यो] जीवजातयः । एतेषामतुलान् भेदान् विजानाति महेश्वरः ॥. The reading of Mac 10 / GorS(1) 5 / GorS(2) 8 is: आसनानि तु तावन्ति यावत्यो जीवजातयः । एतेषामखिलान् भेदान् विजानाति महेश्वरः ॥.)

3. IAST transliteration (TSS 119):

> āsanāni ca tāvanti yāvanto jīvajantavaḥ |
> eteṣāṃ lakṣaṇaṃ bhedaṃ vijānāti maheśvaraḥ || 6 ||

4. English translation:

There are as many āsanas as there are living creatures (or in other recensions: "species of living beings"); their distinguishing mark and variety (other recensions: "all their innumerable/matchless varieties") are known [only] to Maheśvara (the Great Lord Śiva).

5. Word-by-word analysis of key terms and grammatical forms:

- आसनानि (āsanāni) — nom. pl. n. of āsana-: "postures."
- तावन्ति ... यावन्तः (tāvanti ... yāvantaḥ) — correlative pronominal adjectives: n. pl. tāvanti ("so many [postures]") and m. pl. yāvantaḥ ("as many [living creatures]"); in Mac/GorS(1)/GorS(2) and ख, the second member agrees with f. pl. jīvajātayaḥ as yāvatyaḥ ("as many species").
- जीवजन्तवः (jīvajantavaḥ) — nom. pl. m., karmadhāraya or dvandva (jīva- + jantu-): "living beings, creatures." Mac/GorS/ख read जीवजातयः (jīvajātayaḥ, nom. pl. f.): "classes/species of living beings."
- एतेषाम् (eteṣām) — gen. pl. n. of etad-: "of these (āsanas)."
- लक्षणम् (lakṣaṇam) / भेदम् (bhedam) — acc. sg.: "characteristic/definition and distinction/variety." Mac/GorS(1)/GorS(2)/YT read अखिलान् भेदान् (akhilān bhedān, acc. pl. m., "all varieties"); MS ख of TSS 119 reads अतुलान् भेदान् (atulān bhedān, "incomparable varieties").
- विजानाति (vijānāti) — 3rd sg. pres. of vi-√jñā: "discerns, fully knows."
- महेश्वरः (maheśvaraḥ) — nom. sg. m.: "Maheśvara (the Great Lord, Śiva)."

6. Source notes, variant readings, and textual criticism:

- One of the earliest haṭha-yogic formulations equating the number of āsanas with the traditional cosmological tally of species of living beings (jīvajātayaḥ), specified in the immediately following verse as 84 lakṣa (8,400,000).
- Compare the near-verbatim borrowing in Gheraṇḍasaṃhitā 2.1 (āsanāni samastāni yāvanto jīvajantavaḥ / caturāśītilakṣāṇi śivena kathitaṃ purā) and Dhyānabindu Upaniṣad (āsanāni ca tāvanti yāvanto jīvajantavaḥ).

> चतुराशीतिलक्षाणामेकंमेकमुदाहृतम् ।
> ततः शिवेन पीठानां षोडशोनं शतं कृतम् ॥ ७ ॥

(In TSS 119, the typeset text inserts an anusvāra before mekam: एकंमेकमुदाहृतम् [= एकमेकमुदाहृतम्]. Footnotes in TSS 119: 6 'कैकं समु' [एकैकं समुदाहृतम्, as in YT 1.9], 7 'शानां श' [षोडशानां शतं कृतम्], 8 'मेतदुदाहृतम् ।' — metrically belongs to 6.8a [द्वयमेतदुदाहृतम्].)

3. IAST transliteration (TSS 119):

> caturāśītilakṣāṇām ekam ekam udāhṛtam |
> tataḥ śivena pīṭhānāṃ ṣoḍaśonaṃ śataṃ kṛtam || 7 ||

4. English translation:

From the eight million four hundred thousand [āsanas], one from each [lakṣa / for each kind] has been declared; from those, Śiva fashioned one hundred less sixteen (i.e., eighty-four) pīṭhas (seats/postures).

5. Word-by-word analysis of key terms and grammatical forms:

- चतुराशीतिलक्षाणाम् (caturāśītilakṣāṇām) — gen. pl. n./m., compound caturaśīti- (84) + lakṣa- (100,000): "of the eighty-four lakṣas (= 8,400,000)."
- एकमेकम् (ekam ekam) / var. एकैकम् (ekaikam) — acc./nom. sg. n., distributive repetition: "one each (for each species / from each lakṣa)."
- उदाहृतम् (udāhṛtam) — past passive participle (PPP) nom. sg. n. of ud-ā-√hṛ: "uttered, cited, declared."
- ततः (tataḥ) — adv.: "therefrom, then, out of them."
- शिवेन (śivena) — instr. sg. m. (agent with passive kṛtam): "by Śiva."
- पीठानाम् (pīṭhānām) — gen. pl. n. of pīṭha-: "of seats, pedestals, postures" (a standard haṭha-yoga synonym for āsana, cf. Matsyendrapīṭha, Māyūrapīṭha in HYP 1.29, 32, 41, 70).
- षोडशोनं शतम् (ṣoḍaśonaṃ śatam) — crucial Sanskrit arithmetic idiom: ṣoḍaśa- (16) + ūna- ("diminished by, minus," with guṇa-sandhi a + ū → o) + śatam (100) = 100 − 16 = 84.
- कृतम् (kṛtam) — PPP nom. sg. n. of √kṛ: "made, established."

6. Source notes, variant readings, and textual criticism:

- Decisive textual finding: TSS 119 6.7 and YT 1.9 (along with the Yogataraṅgiṇī gloss, which explicitly explains: ṣoḍaśonaṃ śataṃ caturāśīti-saṅkhyākam — "100 less 16, i.e., numbering eighty-four") preserve the authentic reading ṣoḍaśonaṃ śatam (= 84).
- In the later editions Mac 11, GorS(1) 6, and GorS(2) 9, this idiom corrupted into षोडेशानं शतम् (ṣoḍeśānaṃ śatam). Unaware of the corruption, G. W. Briggs (1938) in GorS(2) translated the number as "16," while Maccidānanda (2025, Mac 11) misconstrued ṣoḍeśānam as "16 + 100 = 116 pīṭhas" and built an entire numerological footnote (1 + 1 + 6 = 8) upon the scribal error. Footnote 7 to TSS 119 6.7 in one South Indian witness preserves yet another corruption, ṣoḍaśānāṃ śatam ("a hundred of sixteen").

4. Singling Out the Two Supreme Āsanas (Siddhāsana and Kamalāsana)

1. Verse number in each recension:

- TSS 119: Prabodha 6.8 (p. 53)
- Mac: 12 (pp. 5–6)
- Baroda 4110: present
- GorS(1): 7
- GorS(2): 10
- YT: 1.10
- Parallel: YCUp 3ab

2. Original Devanāgarī text (TSS 119):

> आसनेभ्यः समस्तेभ्यो द्वयमेव विशिष्यते ।
> एकं सिद्धासनं प्रोक्तं द्वितीयं कमलासनम् ॥ ८ ॥

(Variants in TSS 119 footnotes: 8 'मेतदुदाहृतम् ।' [= द्वयमेतदुदाहृतम्, identical to YT 1.10], 9 'तावद द्वि' ख. पाठः. *[*द्वयं तावद विशिष्यते / द्वयं तावद द्वि...]; Mac 12 reads प्रशस्यते for विशिष्यते.)

3. IAST transliteration (TSS 119):

> āsanebhyaḥ samastebhyo dvayam eva viśiṣyate |
> ekaṃ siddhāsanaṃ proktaṃ dvitīyaṃ kamalāsanam || 8 ||

4. English translation:

Among all āsanas, two alone stand out (in Mac: "are praised"; in YT: "are declared"): one is called siddhāsana (the posture of the adept), and the second is kamalāsana (the lotus posture).

5. Word-by-word analysis of key terms and grammatical forms:

- आसनेभ्यः समस्तेभ्यः (āsanebhyaḥ samastebhyaḥ) — abl. pl. n.: "from/among all āsanas."
- द्वयम् (dvayam) — nom. sg. n.: "a pair, two."
- एव (eva) — restrictive particle: "alone, only."
- विशिष्यते (viśiṣyate) — 3rd sg. pres. pass. of vi-√śiṣ: "is distinguished, excels" (Mac var. praśasyate "is praised" from pra-√śaṃs; YT var. etad udāhṛtam "this [pair] is declared").
- सिद्धासनम् (siddhāsanam) — n. nom. sg.: "posture of the siddhas (perfected adepts)."
- कमलासनम् (kamalāsanam) — n. nom. sg.: "lotus posture" (kamala- "lotus" + āsana-, synonym of padmāsana).

6. Source notes, variant readings, and textual criticism:

- Limiting the core canon to exactly two principal postures (siddhāsana and kamalāsana = padmāsana) is a hallmark of the early haṭha-yoga stratum of the Vivekamārtaṇḍa: later compendia expand the core set to 4 (HYP 1.36: siddha, padma, siṃha, bhadra; Śivasaṃhitā 3.100–115: siddha, padma, ugra/paścimatāna, svastika), 15 in the full HYP roster, 32 in GhS 2, and 84 in the Haṭharatnāvalī / Jogapradīpyakā.

- Yogacūḍāmaṇi Upaniṣad 3ab retains only the second half-verse (ekaṃ siddhāsanaṃ proktaṃ dvitīyaṃ kamalāsanam), omitting the posture descriptions entirely and jumping straight to ṣaṭcakraṃ ṣoḍaśādhāram... (TSS 6.3).

5. Description of Siddhāsana (the Posture of the Adept)

1. Verse number in each recension:

- TSS 119: Prabodha 6.9 (p. 54)
- Baroda 4110 (Viv): 7 (7ab quoted in Westoby 2024, App. 3)

- GorS(1): 8
- GorS(2): 11
- YT: 1.11
- Parallel: HYP 1.37 (verbatim borrowing into the Haṭhapradīpikā)

2. Original Devanāgarī text (TSS 119):

> योनिस्थानकमङ्घ्रिमूलघटितं कृत्वा दृढं विन्यसे-
> न्मेढ्रे पादमथैकमेकहृदयो धृत्वा समं विग्रहम् ।
> स्थाणुः संयमितेन्द्रियोऽचलदृशा पश्येद् भ्रुवोरन्तरं
> चैतन्मोक्षकवाटभेदजनकं सिद्धासनं प्रोच्यते ॥ ९ ॥

(Footnotes in TSS 119: 1 'र्ष्णि' [पार्ष्णिम् "heel" instead of पादम्], 2 'त्या' [धृत्या], 3 'श्यन् भ्रु' [पश्यन् भ्रुवोरन्तरम्]. The crucial reading of Baroda 4110 (Viv 7ab): योनिस्थानकमङ्घ्रिमूलघटितं कृत्वा दृढं विन्यसेन् मेढ्रे पादमथैकमेव हृदये धृत्वा हनुं सुस्थिरम्.)

3. IAST transliteration:

- TSS 119:

> yonisthānakam aṅghrimūlaghaṭitaṃ kṛtvā dṛḍhaṃ vinyasen
> meḍhre pādam athaikam ekahṛdayo dhṛtvā samaṃ vigraham |
> sthāṇuḥ saṃyamitendriyo 'caladṛśā paśyed bhruvor antaraṃ
> caitan mokṣakavāṭabhedajanakaṃ siddhāsanaṃ procyate || 9 ||

- Baroda 4110 (Viv 7ab) (normalizing the transcript typos yonistānakam aṅgrimūla- and medhre in Westoby 2024):

> yonisthānakam aṅghrimūlaghaṭitaṃ kṛtvā dṛḍhaṃ vinyasen
> meḍhre pādam athaikam eva hṛdaye dhṛtvā hanuṃ susthiram |

- GorS(1) 8 / GorS(2) 11 / YT 1.11: pādas b–d: meḍhre pādam athaikam eva niyataṃ kṛtvā samaṃ vigraham / sthāṇuḥ saṃyamitendriyo 'caladṛśā paśyan bhruvor antaram (caitan / etan) mokṣakavāṭabhedajanakaṃ siddhāsanaṃ procyate.

4. English translation:

Having pressed [one] heel (lit. "root of the foot") firmly against the perineal region (yonisthānaka), one should place the other foot (var. 1: "heel") over the genital organ (meḍhra); [then:]

- per TSS 119 / GorS / Mac: single-hearted / restrained, keeping the body straight, motionless as a pillar, with senses curbed, one should gaze (or "gazing") with an unwavering eye between the eyebrows — this is declared siddhāsana, which breaks open the doors of liberation;
- per Baroda 4110 (Viv 7ab) and HYP 1.37: "...holding the chin firmly against the heart/chest" (jālandharabandha).

5. Word-by-word analysis of key terms and grammatical forms:

- योनिस्थानकम् (yonisthānakam) — acc. sg. n.: the perineal region (mūlādhāra/yoni between anus and genital root; cf. the Mānasollāsa definition quoted in YT 1.11: gudāc ca dvyaṅgulād ūrdhvaṃ meḍhrāc ca dvyaṅgulād adhaḥ).
- अङ्घ्रिमूलघटितम् (aṅghrimūlaghaṭitam) — acc. sg. n. modifying yonisthānakam: aṅghri- ("foot") + mūla- ("root/base," i.e., heel pārṣṇi) + ghaṭita- ("joined closely, pressed against").
- दृढम् (dṛḍham) — adv. / acc. adj.: "firmly, tightly."
- विन्यसेत् (vinyaset) — 3rd sg. opt. parasmaipada of vi-ni-√as: "one should place/set."
- मेढ्रे (meḍhre) — loc. sg. m. of meḍhra- ("male organ" / pubic region directly above it; cf. HYP 1.38 meṇḍhrād upari).
- पादम् अथैकम् (pādam athaikam) — acc. sg.: "and then the other foot"; TSS 119 n. 1 gives पार्ष्णिम् (pārṣṇim, "heel").
- एकहृदयः (ekahṛdayaḥ) — nom. sg. m., bahuvrīhi: "single-hearted, concentrated in heart" (replaced in GorS/Mac by adv. niyatam "steadily"; in Baroda 4110 and HYP 1.37 replaced altogether by hṛdaye dhṛtvā/kṛtvā hanuṃ susthiram "holding/placing the chin steadily on the heart/chest").
- धृत्वा समं विग्रहम् (dhṛtvā samaṃ vigraham) — gerund dhṛtvā ("holding") + acc. samaṃ vigraham ("the body even/straight").
- स्थाणुः (sthāṇuḥ) — nom. sg. m.: "a motionless pillar/trunk" (also an epithet of Śiva in immobile ascetic meditation).
- संयमितेन्द्रियः (saṃyamitendriyaḥ) — nom. sg. m., bahuvrīhi: "having restrained the senses."
- अचलदृशा (acaladṛśā) — instr. sg. f. (a-cala- + dṛś-): "with a motionless (unblinking) gaze."
- पश्येद् / पश्यन् (paśyed / paśyan) — optative "should look" (TSS 119, HYP 1.37) vs present participle "looking" (GorS, Mac, YT, TSS n. 3).
- भ्रुवोरन्तरम् (bhruvor antaram) — gen. du. bhruvoḥ ("of the eyebrows") + antaram ("interval"): the midpoint between the brows (bhrūmadhya).
- मोक्षकवाटभेदजनकम् (mokṣakavāṭabhedajanakam) — nom. sg. n., compound: "causing the breaking open of the door-panels of liberation" (mokṣa- + kavāṭa- "door-leaf" + bheda- "breaching" + janaka- "producing").
- सिद्धासनम् (siddhāsanam) — nom. sg. n. ("siddhāsana"); प्रोच्यते (procyate) — pres. pass. of pra-√vac ("is declared").
- Meter: Śārdūlavikrīḍita (19 syllables per pāda).

6. Source notes, variant readings, and textual criticism:

- Crucial variant Baroda 4110 (Viv 7ab) vs TSS 119: the oldest 1477 CE manuscript preserves in pāda b hṛdaye dhṛtvā hanuṃ susthiram ("holding the chin firmly on the chest," i.e., jālandharabandha), matching HYP 1.37 (hṛdaye kṛtvā hanuṃ susthiram). The later branch (TSS 119, GorS(1), GorS(2), Mac, YT) altered the chin-lock into samaṃ vigraham ("keeping the body straight").
- The Mac 13 e-text suffers from a sandhi corruption, dropping the avagraha to print saṃyamitendriyaścaladṛśā (for ...yo 'caladṛśā), literally reversing the meaning to "with a moving gaze," although the English translation still renders it as "steady."

6. Description of Padmāsana (Bound Lotus Posture)

1. Verse number in each recension:

- TSS 119: Prabodha 6.10 (p. 54)
- Baroda 4110: present
- Mac: 14 (p. 6)
- GorS(1): 9
- GorS(2): 12

- YT: 1.12
- Parallel: HYP 1.46 (1.44 in some editions)

2. Original Devanāgarī text (TSS 119):

> वामोरूपरि दक्षिणं च चरणं विन्यस्य वामं तथा
> याम्योरूपरि पश्चिमेन विधिना धृत्वा कराभ्यां दृढम् ।
> अङ्गुष्ठौ हृदये निधाय चिबुकं नासाग्रमालोकये-
> दन्तर्व्याधिविकारहारि यमिनां पद्मासनं प्रोच्यते ॥ १० ॥

(Footnotes in TSS 119: 4 'संस्थाप्य वा' [वामं instead of विन्यस्य वा — agrees with Mac/GorS/YT/HYP], 5 'ढौ' [दृढौ, see below], 6 'घातहा' [विघातहारि or विघातहा]. Variants in pāda d: etad vyādhi-vikāra-hāri in Mac 14, GorS(1) 9, GorS(2) 12; etad vyādhi-vikāra-nāśana-karaṃ in YT 1.12; etad vyādhi-vināśa-kāri in HYP 1.44/46.)

3. IAST transliteration (TSS 119):

> vāmorūpari dakṣiṇaṃ ca caraṇaṃ vinyasya vāmaṃ tathā
> yāmyorūpari paścimena vidhinā dhṛtvā karābhyāṃ dṛḍham |
> aṅguṣṭhau hṛdaye nidhāya cibukaṃ nāsāgram ālokayed
> antarvyādhivikārahāri yamināṃ padmāsanaṃ procyate || 10 ||

4. English translation:

Having placed the right foot upon the left thigh and likewise the left [foot] upon the right (yāmya) thigh, having reached behind the back (paścimena vidhinā) to grasp both big toes firmly with both hands (or with dṛḍham: "having gripped the big toes firmly"), having placed the chin upon the heart/chest, one should gaze at the tip of the nose — this is proclaimed for self-controlled ascetics (yamins) as padmāsana, remover of internal diseases and disorders (other recensions: "destroyer of diseases and disorders").

5. Word-by-word analysis of key terms and grammatical forms:

- वामोरूपरि (vāmorūpari) — compound vāma- ("left") + ūru- ("thigh") + upari ("upon"): "upon the left thigh."
- दक्षिणं च चरणम् (dakṣiṇaṃ ca caraṇam) — acc. sg.: "the right foot"; then vāmaṃ tathā yāmyorūpari ("and the left likewise upon the right thigh," yāmya- = "southern, i.e., right"). GorS(1)/GorS(2)/YT/HYP read dakṣorūpari, while Mac 14 prints the unmetrical dakṣiṇorūpari (an extra short syllable in Śārdūlavikrīḍita).
- विन्यस्य (vinyasya) / var. संस्थाप्य (saṃsthāpya) — gerund ("having placed / set").
- पश्चिमेन विधिना (paścimena vidhinā) — instr. sg. m.: "by the rear/backwards (lit. 'western') method," i.e., crossing the arms behind the back (later technically termed baddhapadmāsana). The YT 1.12 commentary specifies the cross: the right hand behind the back grasps the right big toe resting on the left thigh, and the left hand the left.
- धृत्वा कराभ्यां दृढम् / दृढौ अङ्गुष्ठौ (dhṛtvā karābhyāṃ dṛḍham / dṛḍhau aṅguṣṭhau) — gerund dhṛtvā ("having grasped") + instr. du. karābhyām ("with both hands") + acc. du. aṅguṣṭhau ("the two big toes"; TSS 119 n. 5 offers the agreeing adj. dṛḍhau "both firmly held big toes," while the main reading dṛḍham is adv. "firmly").
- हृदये निधाय चिबुकम् (hṛdaye nidhāya cibukam) — "having pressed the chin to the chest/heart" (= jālandharabandha).
- नासाग्रमालोकयेत् (nāsāgram ālokayet) — "should gaze at the tip of the nose" (nāsāgradṛṣṭi).
- अन्तर्व्याधिविकारहारि (antarvyādhivikārahāri) — nom. sg. n., tatpuruṣa: "removing internal (antar-) diseases (vyādhi-) and disorders (vikāra-)"; TSS 119 n. 6 gives विघातहारि / विघातहा; GorS(1)/(2)/Mac read etad vyādhivikārahāri ("this [posture], removing diseases and disorders").
- यमिनाम् (yaminām) — gen. pl. m. of yamin-: "for self-restrained yogins."
- पद्मासनम् (padmāsanam) — nom. sg. n.: "lotus posture" (synonym of kamalāsana in v. 8).

- Meter: Śārdūlavikrīḍita.

6. Source notes, variant readings, and textual criticism:
   - Notably, in the Vivekamārtaṇḍa, the canonical Padmāsana itself is from the outset a "bound lotus" (arms crossed behind the back — paścimena vidhinā), which subsequent sections explicitly call baddhapadmāsana (TSS 6.86, 97, 98). Only later in HYP 1.44–49 is this version (there labeled "for yamins") supplemented by an "unbound" padmāsana with hands resting on the thighs (uttānau caraṇau...).
   - Footnote 7 on p. 54 of TSS 119 prints 'चन्द्रिका ॥', though visual inspection of scan p74 confirms that footnote 7 belongs not to padmāsana but to v. 6.12 (सिद्धवन्दिता → सिद्धचन्द्रिका).

7. Sukhāsana in Dhyānamudrā (Comfortable Posture and Bodily Symmetry)

1. Verse number in each recension:
   - TSS 119: Prabodha 6.162cd–163ab (p. 72)
   - YT: 2.63
   - Mac, GorS(1), GorS(2), Baroda 4110 (Viv), YCUp: absent
2. Original Devanāgarī text:
   - TSS 119 (6.162cd–163ab):

> अन्तश्चेतो बहिश्चक्षुरधिष्ठाय सुखासनम् ॥ १६२ ॥
> समत्वं च शरीरस्य ध्यानमुद्रेति कीर्त्तिता ।

   - YT (2.63):

> अन्तश्चेतो बहिश्चक्षुरधः स्थाप्य सुखासनम् ।
> समत्वं च शरीरस्य ध्यानमुद्रेति कथ्यते ॥ ६३ ॥

3. IAST transliteration:
   - TSS 119:

> antaśceto bahiścakṣur adhiṣṭhāya sukhāsanam || 162 ||
> samatvaṃ ca śarīrasya dhyānamudreti kīrttitā |

   - YT 2.63:

> antaśceto bahiścakṣur adhaḥ sthāpya sukhāsanam |
> samatvaṃ ca śarīrasya dhyānamudreti kathyate || 63 ||

4. English translation:

   With the mind [directed] inward and the eyes outward [toward the nose-tip], having taken up a comfortable posture (sukhāsana; YT: "having established a comfortable posture below [on level ground]"), and [maintaining] evenness/symmetry of the body — this is celebrated as dhyānamudrā (the seal of meditation).

5. Word-by-word analysis of key terms and grammatical forms:
   - अन्तश्चेतः (antaś-cetaḥ) — antar ("inward") + cetas- (n. "mind, consciousness").
   - बहिश्चक्षुः (bahiś-cakṣuḥ) — bahis ("outward") + cakṣus- (n. "eye, gaze").
   - अधिष्ठाय (adhiṣṭhāya) — gerund of adhi-√sthā: "having occupied, settled into" (YT var.: अधः स्थाप्य adhaḥ sthāpya — "having placed below [on the ground]").
   - सुखासनम् (sukhāsanam) — acc. sg. n., karmadhāraya (sukha- "comfortable, pleasant" + āsana-): "comfortable seat / sukhāsana." The Yogataraṅgiṇī commentator glosses sukhāsana here descriptively as sukhadam āsanam ("a posture affording ease, set upon level ground as described above [i.e., padmāsana, etc.]"), rather than as a distinct crossed-leg posture of later manuals.
   - समत्वं च शरीरस्य (samatvaṃ ca śarīrasya) — "symmetry/straightness of the body" (aligned trunk, neck, and head).

- ध्यानमुद्रेति (dhyānamudreti) — dhyānamudrā + iti: "is called dhyānamudrā"; कीर्त्तिता / कथ्यते ("is proclaimed / called").

6. Source notes, variant readings, and textual criticism:
   - This verse appears in TSS 119 (with no footnote variants on p. 72) and YT 2.63 (introducing the 9 loci of meditation), but is absent from GorS(1), GorS(2), Mac (and its source, the Yoga Nath e-text / Śrīvāstava 1983), and the Viv excerpts.
   - Notably, TSS 119 exhibits shifted half-verse numbering here: the verse number ॥ १६२ ॥ is placed right after सुखासनम्, while the second half (समत्वं... कीर्त्तिता) is merged under ॥ १६३ ॥ together with the opening verse on Mūlādhāra cakra (आधारं प्रथमं चक्रं...).

Part II. Postures (Padmāsana, Baddhapadmāsana, Baddhāsana) in Practice Contexts and Fruits of Āsana

8. Baddhāsana and the Straight Body at the Close of the 5th Prabodha (TSS 119 only)

1. Verse number in each recension:
   - TSS 119: Prabodha 5.45 (p. 52 — concluding verse of the 5th Prabodha)
   - Mac, Baroda 4110, GorS(1), GorS(2), YT: absent (belongs to Viśvarūpadeva's Advaita framing just prior to the borrowed 6th chapter)
2. Original Devanāgarī text (TSS 119):

> बद्धासनो नित्यमवक्रकायो
> यो मानसं प्राणसमं नियम्य ।
> उद्बुद्धहृत्पङ्कजकर्णिकायां
> ध्यायत्ययं विश्वमयं स मुक्तः ॥ ४५ ॥

3. IAST transliteration:

> baddhāsano nityam avakrakāyo
> yo mānasaṃ prāṇasamaṃ niyamya |
> udbuddhahṛtpaṅkajakarṇikāyāṃ
> dhyāyaty ayaṃ viśvamayaṃ sa muktaḥ || 45 ||

4. English translation:

   He who, firmly settled in posture (baddhāsanaḥ) and always keeping his body unbent (avakrakāyaḥ), having restrained his mind along with (or "equal to") prāṇa, meditates upon the All-pervading One (lit. "consisting of the universe") in the pericarp of the blossomed heart-lotus — he is liberated.

5. Word-by-word analysis of key terms and grammatical forms:
   - बद्धासनः (baddhāsanaḥ) — nom. sg. m., bahuvrīhi (baddha- "bound, fixed" + āsana- "posture"): "having assumed/fixed a posture" (a general idiom meaning firmly seated in meditation, not necessarily baddhapadmāsana).
   - नित्यम् (nityam) — adv.: "always, continually."
   - अवक्रकायः (avakrakāyaḥ) — nom. sg. m., bahuvrīhi (a-vakra- "unbent, straight" + kāya- "body"): "straight-bodied" (resonating with Śvetāśvatara Upaniṣad 2.8 and Bhagavadgītā 6.13).
   - मानसम् (mānasam) — acc. sg. n.: "the mind."
   - प्राणसमम् (prāṇasamam) — compound meaning "equal to / united with prāṇa"; नियम्य (niyamya) — gerund of ni-√yam ("having restrained, curbed").

- उद्बुद्धहृत्पङ्कजकर्णिकायाम् (udbuddhahṛtpaṅkajakarṇikāyām) — loc. sg. f.: "in the pericarp (seed-vessel) of the awakened heart-lotus."
- विश्वमयम् (viśvamayam) — acc. sg. m.: "Him who comprises the universe"; ध्यायति (dhyāyati) — "meditates upon"; स मुक्तः (sa muktaḥ) — "he is liberated."
- Meter: Upajāti (alternation of Indravajrā and Upendravajrā).

6. Source notes, variant readings, and textual criticism:

- A noteworthy discovery in the 5th Prabodha of TSS 119: this is the sole verse mentioning yogic posture outside the 6th Prabodha in Viśvarūpadeva's treatise. Directly preceding it, at 5.44, the phrase ṣaḍaṅgayuto yogaḥ ("yoga endowed with six limbs") is introduced as a literary bridge to the 6th Prabodha (borrowed from Gorakṣanātha's Vivekamārtaṇḍa).

3. IAST transliteration (TSS 119):

> kṛtvā saṅkucitau karau dṛḍhataraṃ baddhvā ca padmāsanaṃ
> gāḍhaṃ vakṣasi sannidhāya cibukaṃ dhyāyaṃś ca taccetasi |
> vāraṃ vāram apānam ūrdhvam anilaṃ proccālayan pūritaṃ
> prāṇaṃ muñcati bodham eti śanakai(ścu ? śa)ktiprabodhān naraḥ || 43 ||

4. English translation:

Having cupped both hands together (lit. in TSS 119: "made contracted/drawn together"; other versions sampuṭitau — "folded like a joined casket/bowl"), having tightly bound padmāsana, having pressed the chin firmly onto the chest and meditating upon That/Her in the mind, repeatedly driving the apāna wind upward and releasing the inhaled prāṇa, a person gradually attains awakening (other versions: "matchless/complete awakening") through the arousal of Śakti.

5. Word-by-word analysis of key terms and grammatical forms:

- सङ्कुचितौ करौ (saṅkucitau karau) — acc. du. m. of PPP saṃ-√kuc + kara-: "contracted/drawn-together hands" (Mac/GorS(2)/YCUp/DhBUp/HYP read sampuṭitau karau — "hands cupped palm-over-palm like a lidded vessel").

- दृढतरं बद्ध्वा च पद्मासनम् (dṛḍhataraṃ baddhvā ca padmāsanam) — comparative adv. dṛḍhataram ("most firmly") + gerund baddhvā ("having bound/assumed") + acc. padmāsanam ("the lotus posture"); Mac/GorS(2)/YCUp/HYP read baddhvā tu.
- गाढं वक्षसि सन्निधाय चिबुकम् (gāḍhaṃ vakṣasi sannidhāya cibukam) — "having tightly set the chin upon the chest" (throat lock — jālandharabandha).
- अपानम् ऊर्ध्वम् अनिलं प्रोच्चालयन् (apānam ūrdhvam anilaṃ proccālayan) — "repeatedly propelling the apāna wind upward" (mūlabandha / śakticālana).
- शक्तिप्रबोधात् (śaktiprabodhāt) — abl. sg.: "from the awakening of [Kuṇḍalinī-]Śakti" (TSS n. 3 and HYP/DhBUp read śaktiprabhāvāt "by the power of Śakti").
- Meter: Śārdūlavikrīḍita.

6. Source notes, variant readings, and textual criticism:

- In the printed TSS 119 text, the editor marked a textual doubt in pāda d (शनकै(श्रु ? श)क्तिप्रबोधान्नरः) owing to manuscript corruption (ścu for śa). Footnote 3 (TSS 119, MS ख) simultaneously shows that ख omits the intervening half-verse 6.44 (aṅgānāṃ mardanaṃ kuryāt...), matching Mac 57–58, GorS(2) 52–53, and YCUp 40–41.
- Absent in GorS(1), YT, and not excerpted in Viv (Westoby), though firmly canonized in HYP 1.50, DhBUp 69, and YCUp 40.

10. Mahāmudrā: the baddhāsano recayet Variant in TSS 119 and Leg Placement

1. Verse number in each recension:

- TSS 119: Prabodha 6.69 (p. 61)
- Baroda 4110 (Viv): 59ab (first two pādas in Westoby 2024, App. 3)
- Mac: 82 (pp. 28–29)
- GorS(1): 33
- GorS(2): 59
- YT: absent (along with the entire mahāmudrā block)
- Parallels: YCUp 66, HYP 3.11–13

2. Original Devanāgarī text (TSS 119):

> वक्षोन्यस्तहनुः प्रपीड्य तरसा योनिं च वामाङ्घ्रिणा
> हस्ताभ्यामनुधारयन् प्रचलितं पादं तथा दक्षिणम् ।
> आपूर्य श्वसनेन कुक्षिकुहरं बद्धासनो रेचयेत्
> सर्वव्याधिविनाशिनी सुमतिभिर्मुद्रा नृणां प्रोच्यते ॥ ६९ ॥

(Footnotes in TSS 119 [cf. 6.68–69]: 6 'द्वानिबन्धनात् ॥ वक्त्रे न्यस्तहनुं निपीड्य सुचिरं यो', 7 'येत् प्रवितम्' [अनुधारयेत् प्रवितं], 8 'द्ध्वा शनै रेचयेदेषा पातकनाश(नी) ननु महामुद्रा नृणां प्राप्यते'.)

3. IAST transliteration:

- TSS 119 (6.69):

> vakṣonyastahanuḥ prapīḍya tarasā yoniṃ ca vāmāṅghriṇā
> hastābhyām anudhārayan pracalitaṃ pādaṃ tathā dakṣiṇam |
> āpūrya śvasanena kukṣikuharaṃ baddhāsano recayet
> sarvavyādhivināśinī sumatibhir mudrā nṛṇāṃ procyate || 69 ||

- Baroda 4110 (Viv 59ab): vakṣyonyastahanur nipīḍya suciraṃ yoniṃ ca vāmāṅghriṇā / hastābhyām api dhārayet pravitataṃ pādaṃ tathā dakṣiṇam |
- GorS(1) 33 / GorS(2) 59 / Mac 82: pāda c reads āpūrya śvasanena kukṣiyugalaṃ baddhvā śanai recayet ("having retained [the breath], one should exhale slowly"), instead of baddhāsano recayet.

4. English translation (TSS 119):

   With chin pressed upon the chest, having forcefully (other versions: "firmly, for a long time") pressed the perineum (yoni) with the left heel/foot, holding with both hands the extended (lit. in TSS main text: "moved forward," in n. 7 and Baroda 4110: pravitataṃ "stretched out," in Mac/GorS: prasaritaṃ) right leg, having filled the abdominal cavity with breath and having fixed the posture (baddhāsanaḥ), one should exhale — the wise declare this mudrā for people as the destroyer of all diseases.

5. Word-by-word analysis of key terms and grammatical forms:
   - वक्षोन्यस्तहनुः (vakṣonyastahanuḥ) — nom. sg. m., bahuvrīhi: "with chin resting on the chest."
   - प्रपीड्य ... योनिं वामाङ्घ्रिणा (prapīḍya ... yoniṃ vāmāṅghriṇā) — "having pressed the perineum firmly with the left foot (heel)."
   - हस्ताभ्याम् अनुधारयन् प्रचलितं [प्रवितनं] पादं ... दक्षिणम् (hastābhyām anudhārayan ...) — "holding with both hands the outstretched right foot/leg."
   - बद्धासनः (baddhāsanaḥ) — unique reading of the TSS 119 main text: nom. sg. m. "having fixed the posture" (whereas MS ख [n. 8] and all other witnesses read बद्ध्वा शनैः baddhvā śanaiḥ — "having bound/retained [the breath], slowly [exhale]").
   - रेचयेत् (recayet) — caus. opt. of √ric: "should exhale."
   - Meter: Śārdūlavikrīḍita.

6. Source notes, variant readings, and textual criticism:
   - Although the technique itself is classified under mahāmudrā (not āsana), somatically it describes a posture identical to the later jānuśīrṣāsana, and the main text of TSS 119 explicitly introduces baddhāsanaḥ where GorS(1), GorS(2), Mac, YCUp, and ख (n. 8) read baddhvā śanaiḥ (evidently a South Indian reinterpretation of baddhvā śanaiḥ as baddhāsano to emphasize postural stability before exhalation).

11. Padmāsana and Upright Alignment in Oṃkāra-Japa

1. Verse number in each recension:
   - TSS 119: Prabodha 6.74 (p. 62)
   - Mac: 87 (p. 30)
   - GorS(2): 83
   - GorS(1), YT, Baroda 4110 (Viv App. 3): absent
   - Parallel: YCUp 71

2. Original Devanāgarī text (TSS 119):

> पद्मासनं समारुह्य समकायशिरोधरः ।
> नासाग्रदृष्टिरेकाकी जपेदोङ्कारमव्ययम् ॥ ७४ ॥

(Footnotes in TSS 119: 1 'क्षरम्' [अक्षरम् instead of अव्ययम्], 4 'जपेदोङ्कारमव्ययम्' क. पाठः. In Mac 87, GorS(2) 83, and YCUp 71, ekānte "in a solitary place" replaces ekākī.)

3. IAST transliteration (TSS 119):

> padmāsanaṃ samāruhya samakāyaśirodharaḥ |
> nāsāgradṛṣṭir ekākī japed oṅkāram avyayam || 74 ||

4. English translation:

   Having mounted padmāsana (the lotus posture), keeping the torso and neck/head erect (samakāyaśirodharaḥ), with gaze fixed on the tip of the nose, alone (other versions: "in a secluded place"), one should silently repeat the imperishable (n. 1 var.: "indestructible syllable") Oṃkāra.

5. Word-by-word analysis of key terms and grammatical forms:
   - पद्मासनम् (padmāsanam) — acc. sg. n.: "the lotus posture."

- समारुह्य (samāruhya) — gerund of sam-ā-√ruh: "having ascended, assumed (the seat/posture)."
- समकायशिरोधरः (samakāyaśirodharaḥ) — nom. sg. m., bahuvrīhi: "holding trunk (kāya) and neck/head (śirodhara, lit. 'head-bearer') straight/even" — direct echo of Bhagavadgītā 6.13 (samaṃ kāyaśirogrīvam).
- नासाग्रदृष्टिः (nāsāgradṛṣṭiḥ) — nom. sg. m.: "with gaze fixed at the nose-tip."
- एकाकी (ekākī) — nom. sg. m.: "alone, solitary" (Mac/GorS(2)/YCUp: loc. ekānte "in solitude").
- जपेत् (japet) — 3rd sg. opt. of √jap: "should murmur / repeat mentally."
- ओङ्कारमव्ययम् (oṅkāram avyayam) — acc. sg.: "the imperishable syllable Oṃ" (var. akṣaram — "indestructible syllable").

6. Source notes, variant readings, and textual criticism:

- Absent in GorS(1) (the praṇava verses are dropped altogether in the 101-verse précis L1) and in YT, but preserved across the long recension (TSS 119, Mac, GorS(2), YCUp).

12. Baddhapadmāsana in Alternate-Nostril Breathing (Nāḍīśodhana)

1. Verse number in each recension:

- TSS 119: Prabodha 6.86 (p. 63)
- Mac: 98 (p. 34)
- GorS(1): 43
- GorS(2): 96
- YT: absent (omitted in block 2.1–6)
- Parallels: YCUp 95, HYP 2.7

2. Original Devanāgarī text (TSS 119):

> बद्धपद्मासनो योगी प्राणं चन्द्रेण पूरयेत् ।
> धारयित्वा यथाशक्ति पुनः सूर्येण रेचयेत् ॥ ८६ ॥

(Variants: bhūyaḥ instead of punaḥ in GorS(1)/GorS(2)/HYP; dhārayed vā yathāśaktyā in YCUp 95.)

3. IAST transliteration (TSS 119):

> baddhapadmāsano yogī prāṇaṃ candreṇa pūrayet |
> dhārayitvā yathāśakti punaḥ sūryeṇa recayet || 86 ||

4. English translation:

Seated in baddhapadmāsana (the bound lotus posture), the yogin should inhale prāṇa (breath) through the Moon (left nostril, iḍā), retain it according to capacity, and then exhale through the Sun (right nostril, piṅgalā).

5. Word-by-word analysis of key terms and grammatical forms:

- बद्धपद्मासनः (baddhapadmāsanaḥ) — nom. sg. m., bahuvrīhi: "having bound/assumed padmāsana" (since TSS 6.10 already defines padmāsana as bound with toes grasped behind the back, this denotes either taking up that very bound lotus or simply assuming padmāsana).
- योगी (yogī) — nom. sg. m. of yogin-.
- प्राणं चन्द्रेण पूरयेत् (prāṇaṃ candreṇa pūrayet) — "should draw in breath through the Moon [left channel iḍā]."
- धारयित्वा यथाशक्ति (dhārayitvā yathāśakti) — gerund "having retained [kumbhaka]" + avyayībhāva adv. "to the extent of one's ability."
- सूर्येण रेचयेत् (sūryeṇa recayet) — "should exhale through the Sun [right channel piṅgalā]."

6. Source notes, variant readings, and textual criticism:

- Printed without a single footnote variant on p. 63 of TSS 119, and absorbed verbatim into HYP 2.7 and YCUp 95.

13. Stages of Prāṇāyāma and Levitation in Baddhapadmāsana

1. Verse number in each recension:

- TSS 119: Prabodha 6.97 (p. 64)
- GorS(1): 49
- Compare altered readings: Mac 109, YT 2.6, YCUp 105, HYP 2.12 (where the word baddhapadmāsana disappears!)
- GorS(2): absent

2. Original Devanāgarī text:

- TSS 119 (6.97):

> अधमे च घनो घर्मः कम्पो भवति मध्यमे ।
> उत्तिष्ठत्युत्तमे देहो बद्धपद्मासनो मुहुः ॥ ९७ ॥

- GorS(1) (49): ... उत्तिष्ठत्युत्तमे योगी बद्धपद्मासनो मुहुः ("the yogin in baddhapadmāsana rises repeatedly" — yogī in place of deho).
- (Branch Mac 109 / YT 2.6 / YCUp 105 / HYP 2.12: उत्तमे स्थानमाप्नोति ततो वायुं निरोधयेत् — replaces the posture reference; yet the YT 2.6 prose commentary explicitly glosses uttame via the original reading: uttame prāṇāyāme baddhapadmāsano yogī uttiṣṭhati, āsanād utthānaṃ labhate*!)*

3. IAST transliteration:

- TSS 119:

> adhame ca ghano gharmaḥ kampo bhavati madhyame |
> uttiṣṭhaty uttame deho baddhapadmāsano muhuḥ || 97 ||

4. English translation:

In the lowest [stage of prāṇāyāma, there is] profuse perspiration; in the middle [stage], trembling arises; and in the highest [stage], the body (in GorS(1): "the yogin") seated in baddhapadmāsana repeatedly rises up [into the air / off the seat].

5. Word-by-word analysis of key terms and grammatical forms:

- अधमे ... मध्यमे ... उत्तमे (adhame ... madhyame ... uttame) — loc. sg. m. (supply prāṇāyāme): the lowest (12 mātrās), middle (24 mātrās), and highest (36 mātrās) grades of breath retention.
- घनो घर्मः (ghano gharmaḥ) — nom. sg. m.: "dense, profuse sweat."
- कम्पः (kampaḥ) — nom. sg. m.: "tremor, shaking."
- उत्तिष्ठति (uttiṣṭhati) — 3rd sg. pres. of ud-√sthā: "rises up, lifts off the seat" (the sign of dardurī / postural levitation).
- देहः (dehaḥ) — nom. sg. m. "body" (TSS 119); GorS(1) 49 reads योगी (yogī).
- बद्धपद्मासनः (baddhapadmāsanaḥ) — nom. sg. m. (bahuvrīhi): "abiding in the bound lotus posture."
- मुहुः (muhuḥ) — adv.: "repeatedly, again and again."

6. Source notes, variant readings, and textual criticism:

- Critical witness for textual history: TSS 6.97 and GorS(1) 49 preserve the archaic mention of levitation in *baddhapadmāsana (uttiṣṭhaty uttame deho/yogī baddhapadmāsano muhuḥ), whereas Mac 109 (which even corrupts ghano gharmaḥ into the nonsensical dhano dharmaḥ), YCUp 105, HYP 2.12, and the root verse of YT 2.6 replaced the second half-line with the bland uttame sthānam āpnoti tato vāyuṃ nirodhayet. Remarkably, the Yogataraṅgiṇī commentary on YT 2.6 still remembers and explicitly cites the older reading baddhapadmāsano yogī uttiṣṭhati!

14. Baddhapadmāsana at the Commencement of Prāṇāyāma Practice

1. Verse number in each recension:

- TSS 119: Prabodha 6.98 (p. 64)
- Mac: 110 (p. 39, with the typo baddhapadnāsano)
- GorS(1): 41
- YT: 2.7
- GorS(2): absent
- Parallel: YCUp 106

2. Original Devanāgarī text (TSS 119):

> बद्धपद्मासनो योगी नमस्कृत्य गुरुं शिवम् ।
> नासाग्रदृष्टिरेकान्ते प्राणायामं समभ्यसेत् ॥ ९८ ॥

(Variants: ekākī instead of ekānte in GorS(1) 41, YT 2.7, YCUp 106; Mac 110 reads bhrūmadhye dṛṣṭir ekākī instead of nāsāgradṛṣṭir ekānte.)

3. IAST transliteration (TSS 119):

> baddhapadmāsano yogī namaskṛtya guruṃ śivam |
> nāsāgradṛṣṭir ekānte prāṇāyāmaṃ samabhyaset || 98 ||

4. English translation:

Seated in baddhapadmāsana, having paid homage to the Guru (or "Guru Śiva"), the yogin, fixing his gaze on the tip of the nose (in Mac 110: "between the eyebrows"), in a solitary place (other versions: "alone"), should diligently practice prāṇāyāma.

5. Word-by-word analysis of key terms and grammatical forms:

- बद्धपद्मासनो योगी (baddhapadmāsano yogī) — see Nos. 12–13. Mac 110 exhibits the typographic error बद्धपद्नासनो (baddhapadnāsano) in both Devanāgarī and IAST.
- नमस्कृत्य गुरुं शिवम् (namaskṛtya guruṃ śivam) — gerund of namas-√kṛ ("having bowed to") + acc. guruṃ śivam ("the guru Śiva" or "the auspicious guru"; YT divides them as guruṃ śivaṃ ca).
- नासाग्रदृष्टिः (nāsāgradṛṣṭiḥ) — "with gaze fixed at the nose-tip" (Mac 110: bhrūmadhye dṛṣṭiḥ, though the Yogataraṅgiṇī gloss on 2.7 permits both focal points).
- एकान्ते (ekānte) / var. एकाकी (ekākī) — "in seclusion" / "alone."
- प्राणायामं समभ्यसेत् (prāṇāyāmaṃ samabhyaset) — opt. of sam-abhi-√as: "should assiduously practice prāṇāyāma."

6. Source notes, variant readings, and textual criticism:

- Printed without variants on p. 64 of TSS 119, immediately following 6.97 on the three stages of prāṇāyāma, whereas GorS(1) places it earlier (41) at the opening of the prāṇāyāma instructions.

15. Therapeutic and Soteriological Fruit of Āsana ("Destroys Diseases Through Āsana")

1. Verse number in each recension:

- TSS 119: Prabodha 6.102 (p. 65)
- Mac: 115 (p. 40)
- GorS(1): 54
- YT: 2.11
- GorS(2): absent
- Parallel: YCUp 109

2. Original Devanāgarī text (TSS 119):

> आसनेन रुजं हन्ति प्राणायामेन पातकम् ।
> विकारं मानसं हन्ति प्रत्याहारेण योगवित् ॥ १०२ ॥

(Variants: all other witnesses read रुजो [rujo, acc. pl. "diseases"] instead of रुजं [rujaṃ, acc. sg.]; in pādas cd Mac 115 / YT 2.11 / YCUp 109 read विकारं मानसं योगी प्रत्याहारेण मुञ्चति*, while GorS(1) 54 reads ...योगी प्रत्याहारेण सर्वदा.)*

3. IAST transliteration (TSS 119):

> āsanena rujaṃ hanti prāṇāyāmena pātakam |
> vikāraṃ mānasaṃ hanti pratyāhāreṇa yogavit || 102 ||

4. English translation:

Through āsana, the knower of yoga (other versions: "the yogin") destroys disease (or "diseases"); through prāṇāyāma, sin/impurity; and through pratyāhāra, one destroys (or "casts off") mental affliction.

5. Word-by-word analysis of key terms and grammatical forms:

- आसनेन (āsanena) — instr. sg. n. (instrumental of means): "by means of āsana."
- रुजम् (rujam) / var. रुजः (rujaḥ) — acc. sg./pl. f. of ruj- ("pain, illness, bodily ailment"; YT 2.11 glosses: āsanena mayūra-matsyendrādinā doṣa-śamana-dvārā rujo daihika-bādhāṃ hanti).
- हन्ति (hanti) — 3rd sg. pres. of √han: "slays, eradicates."
- पातकम् (pātakam) — acc. sg. n.: "sin, transgression."
- विकारं मानसम् (vikāraṃ mānasam) — acc. sg. m.: "mental disturbance/agitation."
- योगवित् (yogavit) — nom. sg.: "knower of yoga" (replaced in Mac/YT/YCUp/GorS(1) by योगी yogī, and in the second hemistich the verb hanti is replaced by muñcati "releases/sheds" or adv. sarvadā).

6. Source notes, variant readings, and textual criticism:

- Forms a matching pair with the following verse (TSS 6.103), allocating the fruits across all six limbs of yoga: āsana → elimination of bodily ailments; prāṇāyāma → destruction of sins; pratyāhāra → removal of mental disturbances; dhāraṇā → steadiness of mind; dhyāna → supreme power/consciousness; samādhi → mokṣa.
- Notably, the YT 2.11 commentator retrojects a wider posture repertoire (mayūra-matsyendrādinā) into his gloss, even though the root text of the Vivekamārtaṇḍa describes only siddhāsana and padmāsana.

  - Mac 119: सम्बद्धासनमेढ्रमंघ्रियुगलं... (obvious corruption of मेढ्रमङ्घ्रि- meḍhramaṅghriyugalam, which led the translator to the fanciful rendering "pair of generative organs").
  - YCUp 114: सम्बद्धासनमेढ्रमङ्घ्रि-युगलं... बद्ध्वा वक्षसि वह्निवायुसहितं...

3. IAST transliteration:

- TSS 119:

> sambadhyāsanam aṅghrimūlaghaṭitaṃ karṇākṣināsāpuṭa-
> dvārāṇy aṅgulibhir niyamya pavanaṃ vaktreṇa cāpūritam |
> dhṛtvā vakṣasi vahnivāyusahitaṃ mūrdhni sthitaṃ dhārayed
> evaṃ yāti śivena tatra samatāṃ yogī ciraṃ jīvati || 107 ||

- MS ख variant in TSS 119 (nn. 3, 4, 6):

sambadhyāsanam ekabuddhir acalaṃ karṇākṣināsāpuṭa-dvārāṇy aṅgulibhir nipīḍya pavanaṃ ... yogī vinaṣṭāmayaḥ ||

- Variant in YT 2.16 / YCUp 114:

sambaddhāsanameḍhram aṅghriyugalaṃ karṇākṣināsāpuṭadvārāṇy aṅgulibhir niyamya...

4. English translation (TSS 119):

Having firmly locked the posture, pressing the heel tightly [against the perineum] (aṅghrimūlaghaṭitam; var. ख: "having secured the posture, motionless, single-minded"; YT: "having joined the pair of feet to the perineum and the region above the genitals"), having closed the apertures of the ears, eyes, and nostrils with the fingers and drawn in air through the mouth, holding it in the chest together with fire and the [lower] wind, one should sustain it fixed at the crown; thus the yogin attains equality with Śiva there and lives long (var. ख: "freed from all disease").

5. Word-by-word analysis of key terms and grammatical forms:

- सम्बध्यासनम् (sambadhyāsanam) — in TSS 119: sambadhya (gerund of sam-√bandh "having tightly bound/fixed") + āsanam (acc. "posture").
- अङ्घ्रिमूलघटितम् (aṅghrimūlaghaṭitam) — acc. sg. n., echoing word-for-word the siddhāsana formula of TSS 6.9a (yonisthānakam aṅghrimūlaghaṭitam): "closely joined with the heel (root of the foot)."
- सम्बद्धासनमेढ्रमङ्घ्रि-युगलम् (sambaddhāsanameḍhram aṅghriyugalam, YT 2.16, YCUp 114) — here the YT 2.16 commentary explicitly glosses āsana as synonymous with yoni-sthāna: atrāsanaṃ yoni-sthānaṃ ... siddhāsanam āruhyety arthaḥ ("here 'āsana' denotes the perineal seat — i.e., 'having mounted siddhāsana'!").
- कर्णाक्षिनासापुटद्वाराणि (karṇākṣināsāpuṭadvārāṇi) — "the portals of the ears, eyes, and nostrils," sealed with the fingers (ṣaṇmukhī / yoni-mudrā technique in nādānusandhāna, as shown by the ensuing v. 6.108 on internal bell sounds).
- Meter: Śārdūlavikrīḍita.

6. Source notes, variant readings, and textual criticism:

- Clearly demonstrates the link between the siddhāsana terminology (6.9) and internal-sound meditation (6.107–108): both aṅghrimūlaghaṭitam in TSS 6.107 and the explicit gloss in YT 2.16 prove that siddhāsana (not padmāsana) is meant here.
- Textual curiosity in Mac 119: the Yoga Nath e-text corrupted aṅghriyugalam ("pair of feet") into maṁdhriyugalam (misreading randhra or aṅghri), and Maccidānanda translated the corrupted phrase uncritically as "the pair of generative organs."

17. Āsana as Prerequisite for Advancing to Dhāraṇā

1. Verse number in each recension:

- TSS 119: Prabodha 6.144 (p. 69)
- Mac: 156 (p. 49)
- GorS(1): 67
- YT: 2.52
- GorS(2), Baroda 4110 (Viv App. 3), YCUp: absent

2. Original Devanāgarī text (TSS 119):

> आसनेन समायुक्तः प्राणायामेन संयुतः ।
> प्रत्याहारेण सम्पन्नो धारणां तु समभ्यसेत् ॥ १४४ ॥

(In Mac 156, GorS(1) 67, YT 2.52: धारणां च समभ्यसेत् for तु; in GorS(1) 67: प्रत्याहारेण संयुक्तः for सम्पन्नः.)

3. IAST transliteration (TSS 119):

> āsanena samāyuktaḥ prāṇāyāmena saṃyutaḥ |
> pratyāhāreṇa sampanno dhāraṇāṃ tu samabhyaset || 144 ||

4. English translation:

Endowed with āsana, united with prāṇāyāma, and perfected in pratyāhāra — [such a yogin] should then practice dhāraṇā (elemental concentration).

5. Word-by-word analysis of key terms and grammatical forms:

- आसनेन समायुक्तः (āsanena samāyuktaḥ) — instr. sg. āsanena + PPP samāyuktaḥ ("equipped with, established in āsana").
- प्राणायामेन संयुतः (prāṇāyāmena saṃyutaḥ) — "joined with prāṇāyāma."
- प्रत्याहारेण सम्पन्नः (pratyāhāreṇa sampannaḥ) — "accomplished in pratyāhāra."
- धारणां तु समभ्यसेत् (dhāraṇāṃ tu samabhyaset) — "should then practice dhāraṇā."

6. Source notes, variant readings, and textual criticism:

- Summarizing transitional verse introducing the pañca-dhāraṇā section (TSS 6.145–155), strictly fixing the sequence of the first four limbs of yoga (6.5): one does not proceed to dhāraṇā without first mastering āsana, prāṇāyāma, and pratyāhāra. Printed with no variants on p. 69 of TSS 119.

Part III. Borderline, Somatic, Lexical, and "False" Occurrences

18. Full Cycle on Viparītakaraṇī ("Inverted Practice" Within the Pratyāhāra Section)

1. Verse numbers in each recension:

- TSS 119: Prabodha 6.121–125 (p. 67; introductory couplets 121–122 + core triad 123–125)
- Mac: 133–137 (pp. 45–46; + footnote on pp. 47–48 inserting 6 verses from Yogatattvopaniṣad 122–127)
- Baroda 4110 (Viv): 111–115+ (Westoby 2024, App. 3 excerpts 111–114)
- GorS(1): 55–59

- YT: 2.30–34 (introductory 30–31, core triad 32–34)
- GorS(2): absent (the pratyāhāra section belongs to the second śataka of Gorakṣapaddhati)
- Cf. later parallels: HYP 3.78–82, Yogatattvopaniṣad 122–127

2. Original Devanāgarī text (TSS 119, p. 67, visually verified from scan):

4. English translation (TSS 119):

- 121: The Sun draws back (consumes) the stream made of lunar nectar; that drawing back/withdrawing is what is called pratyāhāra.
- 122: One woman, descended from the sphere of the Moon, is enjoyed by two; [yet one] who becomes a third [partaking of her] together with those two (var. YT / Mac: "who as a third..."; var. Viv: "who as a third delights here...") becomes free from old age and death (ajarāmaraḥ).
- 123: In the center (other versions: "region") of the navel dwells this Sun, fiery by nature; and in the center (or at the root) of the palate the Moon is ever situated, whose nature is immortal nectar.
- 124: Facing downward, the Moon rains [nectar]; facing upward, the Sun devours it. Herein one must know that means (kāraṇam; other versions — practice karaṇam / karaṇī) by which the drinking nectar (pīyūṣa) is obtained.
- 125: Navel above — palate below; Sun above — Moon below. [This] means (other versions: practice karaṇam / karaṇī), known as "inverted" (viparītākhyam), is acquired through the teaching of the guru (in GorS(1): "from the mouth of the guru").

5. Word-by-word analysis of key terms and grammatical forms:

- प्रत्याहरति (pratyāharati) and प्रत्याहारः (pratyāhāraḥ) — wordplay on the same verb prati-ā-√hṛ: in subtle physiology, the Sun (navel fire) "draws back/seizes" the stream of nectar, while conversely the yogin in pratyāhāra must reclaim that stream into his own mouth (cf. YT 2.30: svasya jihvāyāṃ samānayanaṃ sa eva pratyāhāra ucyate).
- एका स्त्री (ekā strī) — metaphorical figure for the stream of amṛta/bindu dripping from the 16-petaled lunar center; "the two" (dvābhyām) in YT 2.31 are Sun and Moon (elsewhere iḍā and piṅgalā), while "the third" is the yogin himself retaining the nectar via viparītakaraṇī (or suṣumṇā).
- नाभिमध्ये / नाभिदेशे (nābhimadhye / nābhideśe) — loc. sg.: in the navel region, seat of the "fiery" (dahanātmakaḥ) sūrya/bhāskara/bhānu/ravi.
- तालुमध्ये / तालुमूले (tālumadhye / tālumūle) — loc. sg.: in the middle / at the root of the palate (correlated with viśuddhacakra in YT 2.32), seat of the "nectar-natured" (amṛtātmā) candramas/candra/śaśin.
- अधोमुखः (adhomukhaḥ) vs ऊर्ध्वमुखः (ūrdhvamukhaḥ) — bahuvrīhi: "facing downward" (Moon) and "facing upward" (Sun).
- कारणम् (kāraṇam, TSS 6.124–125, Viv 114) vs करणम् (karaṇam, Mac, GorS(1)) vs करणी (karaṇī, YT): a crucial lexical shift — TSS 119 and even Viv 114 (Baroda 4110) read kāraṇa- ("cause, means, expedient"), whereas the more familiar yogic form karaṇa- / karaṇī ("act, technique, practice") appears in GorS(1), Mac, and YT (note that Mac 136 retains an ungrammatical mismatch between feminine jñātavyā and neuter karaṇam, betraying mechanical substitution for original jñātavyā karaṇī or jñātavyaṃ kāraṇam).
- ऊर्ध्वं नाभिरधस्तालु ऊर्ध्वं भानुरधः शशी (ūrdhvaṃ nābhir adhas tālu ūrdhvaṃ bhānur adhaḥ śaśī) — adv. ūrdhvam ("above") and adhas ("below") with subjects nābhiḥ ("navel"), tālu ("palate"), bhānuḥ ("Sun"), śaśī ("Moon"). Essentially, the entire "postural instruction" in the root text is encapsulated in this top–bottom inversion formula followed by a deferral to oral transmission (guruvākyena / guruvaktreṇa labhyate).

6. Source notes, variant readings, and textual criticism:

- Unique placement within pratyāhāra: as James Mallinson observes (SOAS seminar, Oct 2019; Westoby 2024; Roots of Yoga 2017), the Vivekamārtaṇḍa is the only classical haṭha-yoga treatise to place viparītakaraṇī inside its pratyāhāra section (TSS 6.121–125; in Baroda 4110, pratyāhāra spans 103–131, with 111–115+ devoted to viparītakaraṇī) rather than under mudrā or āsana. The Yogataraṅgiṇī commentary explicitly marks the shift from general sensory pratyāhāra to haṭha-yogic amṛta-pratyāhāra (haṭha-yoga-sādhya-pratyāhāram before 2.30) and unites 2.32–34 under the label viparīta-karaṇī (viparīta-karaṇīṃ sūcayati nābhideśe iti tribhiḥ).
- Absence of step-by-step physical "inversion" instructions in the early text: although "navel above palate" physically presupposes turning the body upside down (shoulderstand or headstand), explicit somatic prescriptions — "head down, feet up" (adhaḥśirāś cordhvapādaḥ), heavy eating due to kindling jaṭharāgni, incremental duration from an instant to 3 hours (yāma), and conquering gray hair and wrinkles in six months — are absent from the Vivekamārtaṇḍa. They appear only later in HYP 3.78–82 and Yogatattvopaniṣad 122–127.

– Caution regarding Maccidānanda's edition (Mac, 2025, pp. 47–48): no Sanskrit witness of the Vivekamārtaṇḍa refers to viparītakaraṇī with the word āsana. After v. 137, Mac prints a 6-verse block titled viparītakaraṇīlakṣaṇaṃ tatphalaṃ ca (numbered 122–127, accompanied by the gloss svasthitiviparītaṃ kriyata iti viparītakaraṇī and the English rendering "posture"), yet on the very next page the editor clarifies that this is a commentarial quotation from the *Yogatattvopaniṣad, not part of the root text of the Vivekamārtaṇḍa.

19. Other Somatic Body Positions Without the Term Āsana (Supine Position in Somapāna and the praṇāmavidhinā Reading)

1. Verse numbers in each recension:
   – 19a (supine position in somapāna): TSS 119 6.134 (p. 68) | Mac 146 | YT 2.43 | Viv 118 | (GorS(1), GorS(2) absent)
   – 19b (prostration posture variant in kumbhaka): TSS 119 6.100c (p. 64) vs Mac 112c | YT 2.9c | YCUp 107c | Viv 90ab (lacks c)
2. Original Devanāgarī text (TSS 119):
   – 19a (TSS 6.134, p. 68):

> बद्ध्वा सोमकलाजलं सुविमलं कण्ठस्थलादूर्ध्वतो
> नासान्तस्सुषिरेण याति गगनद्वारं ततः सर्वतः ।
> ऊर्ध्वास्यो भुवि सन्निपत्य नितरामुत्तानगात्रः पिबे-
> देवं यो विदधे जितेन्द्रियमना नैवास्ति तस्य क्षयः ॥ १३४ ॥

(Footnotes in TSS 119: 5 'द्धं' [बद्धं = Mac 146, YT 2.43], 6 'यतं तेनांगतं प्लावयत्येवं'. YT 2.43c reads उत्तानपादः for उत्तानगात्रः. In Viv 118, lines ab differ — opening with मूर्ध्नः षोडशपत्रपद्मगलितं प्राणादवाप्तं हठाद्... [TSS 6.128], without the supine line c.)

   – 19b (TSS 6.100cd, p. 64):

> आत्मध्यानयुतः प्रणामविधिनावष्टभ्य मूर्ध्ना भुवं
> यावत् तिष्ठति तावदायनगतं श्रेयःफलं विन्दति ॥ १०० ॥

(Footnote 4 in TSS 119: 'मूर्धानमानयेत् तोयं स' ख. पाठः.; by contrast, Mac 112 / YT 2.9 / YCUp 107 do not mention touching the earth with the head at all: आत्मध्यानयुतस्त्वनेन विधिना विन्यस्य मूर्ध्नि ध्रुवम्.)

3. IAST transliteration:
   – 19a (TSS 6.134):

> baddhvā somakalājalaṃ suvimalaṃ kaṇṭhasthalād ūrdhvato
> nāsāntassuṣireṇa yāti gaganadvāraṃ tataḥ sarvataḥ |
> ūrdhvāsyo bhuvi sannipatya nitarām uttānagātraḥ pibed
> evaṃ yo vidadhe jitendriyamanā naivāsti tasya kṣayaḥ || 134 ||

   – 19b (TSS 6.100cd):

> ātmadhyānayutaḥ praṇāmavidhināvaṣṭabhya mūrdhnā bhuvaṃ
> yāvat tiṣṭhati tāvad āyanagataṃ śreyaḥphalaṃ vindati || 100 ||

4. English translation:
   – 19a: Having retained the utterly pure water of the lunar digits, [the yogin guides it] upward from the throat region; through the inner passage of the nose it then reaches the sky-door on all sides. With face turned upward, having lain down upon the ground with body completely stretched out supine

(uttānagātraḥ; in YT 2.43: "with legs raised/extended," uttānapādaḥ), one should drink [the nectar] — he who with conquered senses and mind acts thus suffers no decay.

- 19b (TSS 6.100cd): Engaged in meditation on the Self and resting the crown of the head upon the earth in the manner of a prostration (praṇāmavidhinā), as long as he remains thus...

5. Word-by-word analysis of key terms and grammatical forms:
   - ऊर्ध्वास्यो भुवि सन्निपत्य नितरामुत्तानगात्रः (ūrdhvāsyo bhuvi sannipatya nitarām uttānagātraḥ) — ūrdhvāsyaḥ ("face upturned"), bhuvi sannipatya ("having lain down / sunk upon the earth"), uttānagātraḥ ("with body supine / stretched upward"; YT var. uttānapādaḥ "with feet upturned/extended"). A rare explicit description of a supine posture in early haṭha yoga (comparable to later śavāsana and uttānapādāsana).
   - प्रणामविधिनावष्टभ्य मूर्ध्ना भुवम् (praṇāmavidhināvaṣṭabhya mūrdhnā bhuvam) — praṇāmavidhinā ("by the rule of prostration") + avaṣṭabhya ("having supported/propped") + mūrdhnā ("with the head/crown") + bhuvam ("upon the ground").
6. Source notes, variant readings, and textual criticism:
   - Supine posture (6.134): in the early witness Baroda 4110 (Viv 118), line ūrdhvāsyo bhuvi sannipatya... is absent — Viv 118 joins TSS 6.128ab with utkallolakalājalaṃ... (TSS 6.128cd), showing that the full supine description during somapāna is characteristic of the expanded recension (TSS 6.134, Mac 146, YT 2.43).
   - Textual peculiarity of TSS 6.100c: the reading praṇāmavidhināvaṣṭabhya mūrdhnā bhuvam (fixing a head-on-ground prostration posture, akin to later inverted/head-supported techniques) is unique to TSS 119 and stands against the reading shared by Mac 112 / YT 2.9 / YCUp 107: vinyasya mūrdhni dhruvam ("having fixed [prāṇa] firmly in the crown").

20. Lexical "False Friends" (āsane = "at the anus," kamalāsana = Brahmā, lohitapīṭha = oneiromantic throne)

1. Verse numbers in each recension:
   - 20a (āsane = "at the anus/seat" in the list of 10 nāḍīs): GorS(1) 21 | GorS(2) 30 | Mac 33 (replaced with ānane) | absent in TSS 119 (6.21–23) and YT (omitted)
   - 20b (kamalāsana = epithet of Brahmā in Pṛthvī-dhāraṇā): TSS 119 6.146 (p. 70) | Baroda 4110 (Viv) 134 | Mac 158 | GorS(1) 69 | YT 2.54
   - 20c (lohitapīṭha in kālajñāna — oneiromantic omen of death): TSS 119 Prabodha 4.185 (p. 47) | absent in Gorakṣa's corpus
2. Original Devanāgarī text:
   - 20a (GorS(1) 21 = GorS(2) 30; cf. Mac 33):

> दक्षिणे हस्तिजिह्वा च पूषा कर्णे च दक्षिणे ।
> यशस्विनी वामकर्णे चासने वाप्यलम्बुषा ॥ २१ ॥

(In Mac 33 and YCUp 20: यशस्विनी वामकर्णे चानने चाप्यलम्बुषा — "in the mouth" instead of "at the anus.")

   - 20b (TSS 6.146ab, p. 70):

> या पृथ्वी हरितालहेमरुचिरा तत्त्वं लकारान्वितं
> संयुक्ता कमलासनेन हि चतुष्कोणा हृदि स्थायिनी । ... ॥ १४६ ॥

   - 20c (TSS 4.185, p. 47):

> स्वप्ने लोहितपीठस्थो लोहिताम्बरभूषितः ।
> रक्तचन्दनदिग्धाङ्गः पञ्च मासान् स जीवति ॥ १८५ ॥

(Footnote 1 in TSS 119: 'स स्वप्ने लोहपी' ग. पाठः.)

3. IAST transliteration:

- 20a (GorS(1) 21): dakṣiṇe hastijihvā ca pūṣā karṇe ca dakṣiṇe / yaśasvinī vāmakarṇe cāsane vāpy alambuṣā || 21 ||
- 20b (TSS 6.146ab): yā pṛthvī haritālahemarucirā tattvaṃ lakārānvitaṃ / saṃyuktā kamalāsanena hi catuṣkoṇā hṛdi sthāyinī ... || 146 ||
- 20c (TSS 4.185): svapne lohitapīṭhastho lohitāmbarabhūṣitaḥ / raktacandanadigdhāṅgaḥ pañca māsān sa jīvati || 185 ||

4. English translation:

- 20a: In the right [eye] is hastijihvā, at the right ear is pūṣā, at the left ear is yaśasvinī, and at the seat/anus (āsane; in Mac 33: "at the mouth," ānane) is alambuṣā.
- 20b: That Earth, gleaming like orpiment and gold, the element endowed with the seed-syllable la, joined with the Lotus-Seated One (Brahmā), four-cornered, abiding in the heart...
- 20c: Whoever in a dream sees himself seated upon a red throne/couch (lohitapīṭhasthaḥ), adorned with red garments and smeared with red sandalwood paste — lives for five months.

5. Word-by-word analysis of key terms and grammatical forms:

- चासने (cāsane = ca + āsane) — loc. sg. n. of āsana- in the anatomical sense of "seat, buttocks, anus" (not a yogic posture!).
- कमलासनेन (kamalāsanena) — instr. sg. m., bahuvrīhi: "with Him whose seat is the lotus," i.e., Brahmā — the presiding deity of the Earth element (explicitly glossed in YT 2.54: kamalāsanena brahmaṇā saṃyuktā). Not to be confused with neuter kamalāsanam ("lotus posture") in TSS 6.8!
- लोहितपीठस्थः (lohitapīṭhasthaḥ) — nom. sg. m.: "seated upon a red seat/couch" (a death-omen in kālajñāna, not a yogic pīṭha).

6. Source notes, variant readings, and textual criticism:

- In an exhaustive lexical search on the stems āsana and pīṭha, these three occurrences yield formal matches that must be excluded from yogic posture prescriptions. In TSS 119, the couplet enumerating the ten nāḍī orifices (20a) is absent altogether between 6.21 and 6.22.

5. Word-by-word analysis of key terms and grammatical forms:

- आसनादीनि (āsanādīni) — nom. pl. n., bahuvrīhi: "beginning with āsana."
- बहुष्वासनभेदेषु (bahuṣv āsanabhedeṣu) — loc. pl. m.: "among the many varieties of āsana."
- सारभूतम् आसनद्वयम् (sārabhūtam āsanadvayam) — "the two essential/core āsanas" (i.e., siddhāsana and kamalāsana).
- तस्य लक्षणम् (tasya lakṣaṇam) — "its [this dual posture-set's] definition."

6. Source notes, variant readings, and textual criticism:

- Although compiled by the Trivandrum Sanskrit Series editors (1935) rather than the medieval author, this Contents index documents that the TSS 119 editorial tradition itself treats vv. 6.5–10 (pp. 53–54) as the complete, self-contained āsana section of the Vivekamārtaṇḍa.
