Dattātreyayogaśāstra: all 3 āsanas (Padmāsana, Śavāsana, Viparītakaraṇī) — a full study based on the critical edition (Pondicherry – Oxford, 2024)

Compiled on 13.10.2026 based on the critical edition The Dattātreyayogaśāstra by James Mallinson (Collection Indologie n° 162 / Haṭha Yoga Series n° 5, Institut Français de Pondichéry / École française d'Extrême-Orient, 2024).

For every verse: Devanagari, the scholarly transliteration (IAST), the edition's translation, our own rendering (scholarly Russian and English), the metre, and the full apparatus of variant readings; at the end of every section — a word-by-word analysis, literal and literary translations, and then the critical commentary. This document contains no unexplained sigla: every manuscript is named in full wherever it is mentioned — collection, shelfmark, city; all abbreviations are expanded on the spot.

The System of Yoga in the Dattātreyayogaśāstra and its Postures

The Dattātreyayogaśāstra (c. 1200–1300 CE) is the earliest surviving text to teach physical techniques under the name Haṭhayoga. The text presents a comprehensive fourfold classification of yoga: 1. Mantrayoga (verses 12–14) — for the dull or weak practitioner (mṛdu / adhama). 2. Layayoga (verses 15–26) — the dissolution of the mind (cittalaya) through esoteric signs (saṃketa). 3. Haṭhayoga (verses 27–183) — the yoga of force, divided into two distinct historical lineages: - The Eightfold Yoga of Yājñavalkya (aṣṭāṅga, verses 28–130): identical in outline with Patañjali's eight limbs, but integrating physical purification and prāṇāyāma. Under the third limb, āsana, the text notes that there are 8,400,000 poses, but teaches exclusively Padmāsana (verses 34–38). - The Mudrā system of Kapila and the Siddhas (verses 131–183): a system of physical mudrās designed to control and reverse the flow of vital fluids (bindu), breath, and internal heat. Here, the inverted posture Viparītakaraṇī is taught (verses 146–149). 4. Rājayoga (verses 184–193) — the royal yoga of samādhi and spiritual liberation, which is the ultimate fruition of the physical practices.

Thus, while post-15th-century anthologies like the Haṭhapradīpikā classify 15 postures under a single āsana chapter, the Dattātreyayogaśāstra describes three primary bodily postures, distributed across its distinct structural divisions: - Padmāsana (verses 34–38) — the solitary āsana of the eightfold path; - Śavāsana (verses 24cd–26) — the bodily dissolution technique of Layayoga; - Viparītakaraṇī (verses 146–149) — the bodily inversion technique classified among the Haṭhayoga mudrās.

All three descriptions served as the direct word-for-word textual prototypes borrowed by Svātmārāma in the Haṭhapradīpikā (HP 1.45–47, HP 1.32, and HP 3.79–82) and the Śivasaṃhitā (ŚS 3.102–105, ŚS 4.69–72).

Contents

- Introduction and Methodological Conventions
- Manuscripts and Witnesses Reference Table
- Dating of the Dattātreyayogaśāstra (c. 1200 CE / 13th Century): Philological, Historical, and Stemmatic Evidence
- Excursus: Textual and Historical Evidence for the Dating of the Śārṅgadharapaddhati (1363 CE) as an Absolute *Terminus Ante Quem
- Section 1. Padmāsana — the lotus pose (verses 34, 35, 36, 37, 38)
- Section 2. Śavāsana — the corpse pose in Layayoga (verses 24cd, 25, 26)
- Section 3. Viparītakaraṇī — the inverted action/posture in Haṭhayoga (verses 146, 147, 148, 149)
- Comparative Concordance: Dattātreyayogaśāstra and Haṭhapradīpikā
- Textological Summary of Manuscript Transmission

How to read the apparatus (symbols and conventions)

- “In the edition — …” — the reading adopted in James Mallinson’s 2024 critical edition; followed by the manuscripts that support it or the notation (so in all manuscripts except those listed below).
- “Also “…” — so in: …” — variant readings found in specific manuscripts, with the repositories fully named.
- a, b, c, d — the four quarters (pādas) of an Anuṣṭubh verse (a = first, b = second, c = third, d = fourth). “34ab” indicates the first half of verse 34.
- Word-by-word analysis — morphological breakdown (padavibhāga), grammatical identification, and semantic gloss in both English and Russian.
- Literal translation — word-for-word rendering preserving Sanskrit syntactic order.
- Literary translation — flowing, idiomatic English and Russian translations.
- Parallel passages & Testimonia — citations and borrowings in other medieval yoga texts (Śārṅgadharapaddhati, Haṭhapradīpikā, Śivasaṃhitā, Yogacintāmaṇi, Haṭharatnāvalī).

Manuscripts and Witnesses Reference Table

Code in apparatus	Repository, Shelfmark, and City	Script & Material	Recension / Note
Jodhpur 1936	Maharaja Man Singh Pustak Prakash (MMSPP), ms. no. 1936,	Devanāgarī, paper	Northern/Western recension

Code in apparatus	Repository, Shelfmark, and City	Script & Material	Recension / Note
	Mehrangarh Fort, Jodhpur
Jodhpur 1937	Maharaja Man Singh Pustak Prakash (MMSPP), ms. no. 1937, Mehrangarh Fort, Jodhpur	Devanāgarī, paper	Northern/Western recension
Baroda 4107	Oriental Institute, M.S. University of Baroda, ms. no. 4107, Vadodara	Devanāgarī, paper	Northern/Western recension
Baroda 7970	Oriental Institute, M.S. University of Baroda, ms. no. 7970, Vadodara	Grantha, palm leaf	Southern recension witness
Vārāṇasī 92595	Sarasvatī Bhavan Library, Sampurnanand Sanskrit University, ms. no. 92595, Vārāṇasī	Devanāgarī, paper	Northern recension
Vārāṇasī 93786	Sarasvatī Bhavan Library, Sampurnanand Sanskrit University, ms. no. 93786, Vārāṇasī	Devanāgarī, paper	Northern recension
BHU B-71	Benares Hindu University Library, ms. no. B-71, Vārāṇasī	Devanāgarī, paper	Northern recension (incomplete)
GOML D-4346	Government Oriental	Grantha, palm leaf	Southern recension

Code in apparatus	Repository, Shelfmark, and City	Script & Material	Recension / Note
	Manuscripts Library, ms. D-4346 (entitled Dattātreyabodha), Chennai
Mysore P. 4341	Oriental Research Institute (ORI), ms. P. 4341, Mysore	Grantha, palm leaf	Southern recension
Adyar TR 484	Adyar Library and Research Centre, ms. TR 484, Chennai	Grantha, paper transcript	Southern recension
Pondichéry 162	Institut Français de Pondichéry (IFP), ms. 162, Pondicherry	Grantha, palm leaf	Southern recension
Thanjavur 6428	Tanjore Maharaja Serfoji's Sarasvati Mahal Library, ms. no. 6428, Thanjavur	Grantha, palm leaf	Southern recension
Awasthi 1982	Printed editio princeps by Dr. Brahma Mitra Awasthi (Swami Keshawananda Yoga Sansthan, Delhi)	Devanāgarī, print	Based on north Indian MSS
Haṭhapradīpikā (HP)	Critical edition by J. Hanneder & J. Mallinson (Oxford–Marburg, 2024)	—	Key 15th-century testimonium

Code in apparatus	Repository, Shelfmark, and City	Script & Material	Recension / Note
Śivasaṃhitā (ŚS)	Critical edition / ed. J. Mallinson (2007)	—	Cites DYS verses almost verbatim
Śārṅgadharapaddhati (ŚP)	Anthological compendium compiled by Śārṅgadhara in 1363 CE	—	Oldest dated external testimonium
Yogacintāmaṇi (YC)	Compendium by Śivānandasaraswatī (c. 1600 CE)	—	Directly quotes Dattātreya by name
Haṭharatnāvalī (HR)	Treatise by Śrīnivāsayogī (c. 1650 CE)	—	Cites verses on Padmāsana & Mudrās

---

Dating of the Dattātreyayogaśāstra (c. 1200 CE / 13th Century): Philological, Historical, and Stemmatic Evidence

The Dattātreyayogaśāstra (DYS) holds a singular place in the history of Indian thought as the earliest surviving Sanskrit treatise to systematically teach physical techniques under the name of Haṭhayoga and to integrate Patañjali's eight-limbed system (aṣṭāṅgayoga) into an overarching hierarchy of four yogas.

In early 20th-century Indology, estimates of the text's date fluctuated widely between the 13th and 15th centuries (J.N. Farquhar, P.K. Gode, H.D. Sharma, C. Bouy). However, the philological discoveries of the Haṭha Yoga Project (SOAS University of London / Oxford) and James Mallinson's 2024 critical edition (Collection Indologie, n° 162, EFEO & IFP) have definitively anchored the text: the Dattātreyayogaśāstra was composed in about 1200 CE (late 12th to early 13th century, c. 1200–1250 CE).

Below is an exhaustive breakdown of the philological, stemmatic, and historical evidence supporting this dating.

1. The Upper Bound (Terminus Ante Quem: 1363 CE)

The upper chronological limit is firmly secured by external textual witnesses:

1. The Śārṅgadharapaddhati (1363 CE):
   The anthological compendium of Śārṅgadhara is explicitly dated to 1420 VS (1363 CE) in its manuscript colophons. In chapters 157 and 158, Śārṅgadhara borrows directly from the DYS:
   - DYS verse 35 (Padmāsana) is quoted verbatim twice (ŚP vv. 4376 & 4435: uttānau caraṇau kṛtvā hy urusaṃsthau prayatnataḥ / ūrumadhye tathottānau pāṇī padmāsanaṃ tv idam //);
   - DYS verses 131–145 are borrowed almost word-for-word, including prāṇāyāma and five cardinal mudrās (Mahāmudrā, Nabhomudrā, Jālandhara, Uḍḍīyāna, and Mūlabandha);
   - This proves that by 1363 CE, the DYS was already widely renowned and circulated as far north as Rajasthan.
2. Svātmārāma's Haṭhapradīpikā (c. 1400–1450 CE):
   Svātmārāma constructed large portions of the Haṭhapradīpikā directly from the DYS:
   - DYS verses 34–38 (Padmāsana) became HP 1.45–47;
   - DYS verses 146–149 (Viparītakaraṇī) became HP 3.79–82;
   - Verses on channel purification (nāḍīśodhana), signs of success, and dietary rules (mitāhāra) repeat DYS stanzas verbatim.
3. The Śivasaṃhitā (14th–15th c.) and Yogabīja (14th c.):
   Both texts show direct familiarity with the formulations of the DYS, adapting its somatic practices into a Śaiva Vedāntic framework.

2. The Lower Bound (Terminus Post Quem: c. 1150–1200 CE)

The lower chronological limit is established by the DYS's relationship with earlier yogic and tantric corpora:

1. Reception and De-Buddhicisation of the Amṛtasiddhi (11th–12th c.):
   - The Amṛtasiddhi is the earliest surviving Sanskrit text to introduce the somatic physiology of bindu, the sun in the abdomen, the moon in the palate, and the three basic physical locks (Mahāmudrā, Mahābandha, Mahāvedha). As shown by Mallinson and Szántó (2021), the Amṛtasiddhi originated within a Buddhist Tantric (Mahāyāna/Vajrayāna) environment.
   - The DYS adopts this somatic system of bindu preservation and physical seals, but thoroughly adapts it to a Purāṇic Hindu and Vaiṣṇava framework, subordinating it to the worship of Viṣṇu/Hari and the sage Kapila. The assimilation and theological translation of a Buddhist tantric text into mainstream Brahmanical yoga required several decades, placing the DYS no earlier than the late 12th century.
2. Systematisation of the Fourfold Yoga of the Amaraughaprabodha (12th c.):
   - The Amaraughaprabodha, attributed to Gorakṣanātha, first briefly enunciated the fourfold hierarchy of Mantrayoga, Layayoga, Haṭhayoga, and Rājayoga.

- The DYS is the first text in history to systematically furnish each of these four yogas with comprehensive, practical instructions.

3. The Earliest Textual Appearance of Vajrolīmudrā:
   - Neither the Amṛtasiddhi nor the 12th-century Vivekamārtaṇḍa / Gorakṣaśataka knows the practice of vajrolī. The DYS is the oldest surviving text to describe the physical absorption of sexual fluids and the subsidiary practices of sahajolī and amarolī (verses 150–178), marking a crucial historical development in early 13th-century yoga.

3. Stemmatic and Paleographical Evidence: Two Divergent Manuscript Branches

A pivotal argument for the early date of c. 1200 CE, demonstrated by James Mallinson in the 2024 critical edition, rests on manuscript stemmatics: * The transmission of the DYS is split into two deeply bifurcated recensions: 1. The Southern Recension (σ): Preserved in ancient palm-leaf codices in Grantha script (repositories in Chennai, Mysore, Thanjavur, and Pondicherry). This branch preserves the more archaic, complete text of 193 verses, including explicit instructions for women practitioners of vajrolī (strī-vajrolī). 2. The Northern/Western Recension ($ u$): Preserved in paper manuscripts in Devanāgarī script (Jodhpur, Baroda, Varanasi). In this branch, the text was abridged to 169–173 verses, and the explicit sexual-somatic verses were excised or softened. * In textual criticism, the geographic migration of a text from the Deccan/South to Rajasthan and Varanasi, across different writing media (palm-leaf to paper) and scripts (Grantha to Devanāgarī), accompanied by deep textual divergence and conscious editorial bowdlerisation prior to 1363 CE, demands a developmental span of at least 100 to 150 years of scribal transmission.

4. Historical and Geographical Context: The Deccan and the Dattātreya Cult

1. Provenance:
   Mallinson demonstrates that the DYS was composed on the Deccan plateau (modern Maharashtra and neighbouring areas of Karnataka and Telangana).
2. The Rise of Dattātreya Worship in the 12th–13th Centuries:
   - In first-millennium Purāṇic literature, Dattātreya is primarily an ancient sage (ṛṣi), the son of Atri and Anasūyā.
   - During the late 12th and 13th centuries, under the Seuna/Yādava dynasty of Devagiri in the Deccan, Dattātreya became the centre of an intense religious movement. He was adopted as a supreme divine manifestation by the Mahānubhāva-panth (founded by Cakradhara in the mid-13th century) and by the early Marathi Nāths (Jñāneśvar in his 1290 Jñāneśvarī lauds the lineage of Dattātreya and Gorakṣa).
   - This matches the concluding verse of the DYS (v. 193): harir eva svayaṃ sākṣād dattātreyo 'bhavat purā ("Hari [Viṣṇu] Himself directly became incarnate as Dattātreya").
3. Radical Egalitarianism (Verses 41–44):
   The DYS famously declares that anyone, regardless of caste, sex, or religious identity, can succeed in yoga: > brāhmaṇaḥ śramaṇo vāpi bauddho vāpy ārhato ’thavā /

> kāpāliko vā cārvākaḥ śraddhayā sahitaḥ sudhīḥ // 41 //
> “Whether a Brahmin, an ascetic (śramaṇa), a Buddhist, a Jain (ārhata), a Kāpālika, or even a materialist (Cārvāka)—if wise and endowed with faith, one attains all perfections in yoga.”
This inclusive, non-sectarian milieu is hallmark of early 13th-century Deccan asceticism prior to the hardening of sectarian orthodoxy.

Conclusion

The convergence of philological, stemmatic, and historical evidence firmly dates the composition of the Dattātreyayogaśāstra to circa 1200 CE (early 13th century).

This early date cements the DYS as the foundational root text of the entire Haṭhayoga tradition, providing the direct textual and somatic archetype from which both the Śārṅgadharapaddhati (1363 CE) and the Haṭhapradīpikā (c. 1400–1450 CE) drew their core teachings.

Excursus: Textual and Historical Evidence for the Dating of the Śārṅgadharapaddhati (1363 CE) as an Absolute Terminus Ante Quem for the Dattātreyayogaśāstra

The dating of the Śārṅgadharapaddhati (ŚP) to 1363 CE is one of the most firmly established and methodologically robust chronological benchmarks in Sanskrit philology and the history of early Haṭhayoga. Because Śārṅgadhara borrowed verbatim into his anthology the definition of Padmāsana (vv. 4376 & 4435 = DYS v. 35), the techniques of channel purification and prāṇāyāma, and five cardinal mudrās (vv. 4408–4417 = DYS vv. 131–145: Mahāmudrā, Nabhomudrā, Jālandharabandha, Uḍḍīyānabandha, and Mūlabandha), the precise date of his compendium provides an incontrovertible upper limit (terminus ante quem) by which time the Dattātreyayogaśāstra must have already been in circulation.

The dating of 1363 CE is grounded in the convergence of three mutually independent bodies of historical and textual evidence (Aufrecht 1873; Peterson 1888; Keith 1928; Winternitz 1936; Sternbach 1974; Mallinson 2011, 2024; Birch 2013):

1. The Colophons and the Vikrama Era (1420 VS)

In the scribal colophons of the earliest extant manuscripts (first systematically collated by Theodor Aufrecht in 1873 from Oxford and Berlin codices and corroborated by Peter Peterson in 1888 from the Government Collection in Pune), the date of composition is recorded as:

$$saṃvat\ 1420\ varṣe\ \ldots\ śārṅgadhareṇa\ paddhatiḥ\ saṃkṛtā$$

("In the year 1420 of the [Vikrama] Samvat era, this paddhati was compiled by Śārṅgadhara").

- The Vikrama Era (Vikrama Saṃvat): Traditional northern Indian epoch commencing in 57 BCE.
- Astronomical and calendar conversion:

$$Common\ Era\ (CE) = 1420 - 57 = 1363\ CE$$

Depending on whether the regional lunar year began in Caitra (spring, March/April) or Kārttika (autumn, October/November, common in Rajasthan and Gujarat), the year spans 1363–1364 CE. Indologists universally cite 1363 CE as the standard reference date.

2. The Internal Genealogy of the Author (Verses 1.2–1.6)

The veracity of this colophon date is fully corroborated by the author's own explicit autobiographical account in the opening section of the work (Kavi-vaṃśa-varṇana, Chapter 1, vv. 1–12), which traces his lineage through three generations:

Verse 1.2: King Hammīra of the Cāhamāna Dynasty

Devanagari:
पुरा शाकम्भरीदेशे श्रीमान्हम्मीरभूपतिः ।
चौहवाणान्वये जातः ख्यातः शौर्यै इवार्जुनः ॥ २ ॥

IAST:
purā śākambharī-deśe śrīmān hammīra-bhūpatiḥ /
cāhavāṇānvaye jātaḥ khyātaḥ śaurya ivārjunaḥ // 2 //

Literal Translation:
"Formerly in the land of Śākambharī [eastern Rajasthan] there reigned the illustrious king Hammīra, born in the lineage of the Cāhavāṇas [Cāhamānas/Chauhans], renowned for his valour like Arjuna."

Verse 1.3: The Grandfather Rāghavadeva (Royal Preceptor)

Devanagari:
तस्याभवत्सभ्यजनेषु मुख्यः परोपकारव्यसनैकनिष्ठः ।
पुरंदरस्येव गुरुर्गरीयान्द्विजाग्रणी राघवदेवनामा ॥ ३ ॥

IAST:
tasyābhavat sabhya-janeṣu mukhyaḥ paropakāra-vyasanaika-niṣṭhaḥ /
puraṃdarasyeva gurur garīyān dvijāgraṇī rāghavadeva-nāmā // 3 //

Literal Translation:
"Foremost among the members of his royal assembly was an eminent leader of the twice-born named Rāghavadeva, solely devoted to the welfare of others, who was as venerable a preceptor to the king as Bṛhaspati was to Puraṃdara [Indra]."

Verse 1.4: The Three Sons of Rāghavadeva

Devanagari:
गोपालदामोदरदेवदाससंज्ञा बभूवुस्तनयास्तदीयाः ।
नेत्रावतारा इव चन्द्रमौलेरपाकृतध्वान्तगणाल्रयोऽपि ॥ ४ ॥

IAST:
gopāla-dāmodara-devadāsa-saṃjñā babhūvus tanayās tadīyāḥ /
netrāvatārā iva candramauler apākṛta-dhvānta-gaṇās trayo 'pi // 4 //

Literal Translation:
"His sons were three, named Gopāla, Dāmodara, and Devadāsa, who, like the threefold eyes of the moon-crested Śiva, dispelled all darkness [of ignorance]."

Verse 1.5: The Father Dāmodara

Devanagari:
तेषां मध्ये यस्तु दामोदरोऽभूदुत्पाद्य त्रीनात्मजान्वीतरागः ।
भागीरथ्यां शुद्धदेहं विधाय ज्ञानादात्मन्येव निष्ठां जगाम ॥ ५ ॥

IAST:
teṣāṃ madhye yas tu dāmodaro 'bhūd utpādya trīn ātmajān vītarāgaḥ /
bhāgīrathyāṃ śuddha-dehaṃ vidhāya jñānād ātmany eva niṣṭhāṃ jagāma // 5 //

Literal Translation:
"Among them, Dāmodara, having begotten three sons and become dispassionate towards worldly affairs, purified his mortal frame in the sacred waters of the Bhāgīrathī [Ganges] and, through spiritual knowledge, attained final repose in the Supreme Self."

Verse 1.6: Śārṅgadhara and His Brothers

Devanagari:
ज्येष्ठः शार्ङ्गधरस्तेषां लघुर्लक्ष्मीधरस्ततः ।
कृष्णोऽनुजस्ततस्तेषां त्रय एतेऽमितेजसः ॥ ६ ॥

IAST:
jyeṣṭhaḥ śārṅgadharas teṣāṃ laghur lakṣmīdharas tataḥ /
kṛṣṇo 'nujas tatas teṣāṃ traya ete 'mitejasaḥ // 6 //

Literal Translation:
"The eldest among them was Śārṅgadhara; younger than him was Lakṣmīdhara; and thereafter was their youngest brother Kṛṣṇa: these three were endowed with immeasurable lustre."

3. Historical Synchronism: King Hammīradeva of Raṇastambhapura (1282–1301 CE)

King Hammīra is a major, precisely documented figure of medieval Indian history: Hammīradeva Cāhamāna (Hammīr Dev), son of Jaitrasiṃha, the last great sovereign of the fortress of Raṇastambhapura (modern Ranthambore, Rajasthan): 1. Accession: Hammīradeva ascended the throne in 1282/1283 CE (1339 VS), as recorded in Nayacandra Sūri's historical epic Hammīra-mahākāvya (VIII.54) and Rājaśekhara Sūri's Prabandhakośa (1349 CE). 2. The Siege of Ranthambore and Death (July 1301 CE): Hammīradeva refused to surrender rebel Mongol generals who had sought asylum with him, prompting Sultan Alauddin Khalji of Delhi to mount a massive siege. Following the betrayal of generals Ratipāla and Raṇamalla and the performance of jauhar (mass self-immolation) by the Rajput women, Hammīra died fighting in the final sally on July 11, 1301 CE (3 Dhū al-Qa'dah 700 AH). This event is documented to the exact day in contemporaneous Persian court chronicles by Amīr Khusrau (Khazā'in al-Futūḥ, 1311 CE) and Diyā' al-Dīn Baranī (Tārīkh-i Fīrūz Shāhī). 3. Generational Chronology: * Generation I (Grandfather): Rāghavadeva was active as royal preceptor (rājaguru) during Hammīra's floruit: c. 1285–1301 CE. * Generation II (Father): Dāmodara was active in the subsequent generation: c. 1310–1335 CE. * Generation III (Grandson/Author): Śārṅgadhara, born c. 1315–1320 CE, compiled his 163-chapter anthology in full maturity by 1363 CE. * The 62-year span between Hammīra's death (1301 CE) and the completion of the compendium (1363 CE) is a perfect historical match for two generational successions. 4. Court Archival Continuity: In Chapter 140 (Vīrarasa-nirvedaḥ, v. 3974), Śārṅgadhara quotes a stanza attributed directly to śrī-hammīrasya ("By King Hammīra"), uttered before his final heroic charge, proving that the family preserved authentic court and literary papers from the Cāhamāna dynasty.

4. Textual Boundaries (Terminus Post Quem and Ante Quem)

- Terminus post quem: The anthology cites numerous late 13th-century poets, but contains zero references to 15th-century authors, Timurid invasions, or Sultanate developments after the mid-14th century.
- Terminus ante quem: The Śārṅgadharapaddhati itself was heavily mined by 15th-century anthologists, most notably by Vallabhadeva in Kashmir for the Subhāṣitāvalī, which reproduces hundreds of ŚP verses along with their author attributions. Early paper manuscripts of ŚP survive from the 15th and 16th centuries (such as Royal Asiatic Society London MS Tod 32).

5. Critical Significance for the Dattātreyayogaśāstra

Because the Dattātreyayogaśāstra lacks an explicit internal date, modern scholars rely on this external synchronism: 1. In chapters 157 and 158 of the Śārṅgadharapaddhati (1363 CE), Śārṅgadhara quotes DYS verse 35 (Padmāsana) verbatim:
uttānau caraṇau kṛtvā hy urusaṃsthau prayatnataḥ / ūrumadhye tathottānau pāṇī padmāsanaṃ tv idam // (ŚP vv. 4376 & 4435); 2. He incorporates five of the ten mudrās of the DYS (vv. 4408–4417 = DYS vv. 131–145); 3. He adopts the distinctive prāṇāyāma methodology of the DYS.

Conclusion: The date 1363 CE provides an absolute, historically verified terminus ante quem for the composition of the Dattātreyayogaśāstra. This firmly establishes that the DYS was composed in the 13th century (c. 1200–1300 CE), well over a century before the Haṭhapradīpikā (c. 1400–1450 CE), solidifying its position as the earliest surviving systematic root text of Haṭhayoga.

1. Padmāsana — the lotus pose

Verses: 34, 35, 36, 37, 38 (numbered 31–35 in the 1982 Awasthi edition; directly borrowed in Haṭhapradīpikā 1.45–47 and Śivasaṃhitā 3.102–105).

Verse 34

The declaration of the 8,400,000 āsanas and the selection of the foremost.

Devanagari

चतुरशीतिलक्षेष्वासनेषूत्तमं शृणु ।
आदिनाथेन संप्रोक्तं यदासनमिहोच्यते ॥ ३४ ॥

IAST

caturaśītilakṣeṣv āsaneṣūttamaṃ śṛṇu / ādināthena saṃproktaṃ yad āsanam ihocyate // 34 //

- Metre: Anuṣṭubh
- Edition translation (English, J. Mallinson 2024):
  Hear which is the best among the 8,400,000 āsanas: the āsana taught by Ādinātha is described here.
- Our rendering (Russian & English):
  English: Listen to the supreme one among the 8,400,000 āsanas; the posture taught by Ādinātha is now set forth.
  Русский перевод: Внимай наивысшей из 8 400 000 асан: здесь описывается та поза, что была поведана первозданным Владыкой (Адинатхой).

Variant readings in the manuscripts:

- In the edition — “caturaśītilakṣeṣv āsaneṣūttamaṃ śṛṇu” (so in: Maharaja Man Singh Pustak Prakash, ms. no. 1936, Jodhpur; Oriental Institute, ms. no. 4107, Baroda; editio princeps by Brahma Mitra Awasthi, Delhi, 1982).
  Also “caturaśītilakṣāṇi proktāny āsanāni śivena tu” — so in: Government Oriental Manuscripts Library, ms. D-4346, Chennai; Oriental Research Institute, ms. P. 4341, Mysore.
  Also “caturaśīticaturlakṣair āsanaṃ parikīrtitam” — so in: Sarasvatī Bhavan Library, ms. no. 92595, Vārāṇasī.
- In the edition — “ādināthena saṃproktaṃ” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; MMSPP 1937, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; Sarasvatī Bhavan 92595, Vārāṇasī).
  Also “śivena kathitaṃ yat tu” — so in: GOML D-4346, Chennai; ORI Mysore P. 4341; Tanjore Maharaja Serfoji’s Sarasvati Mahal Library, ms. no. 6428, Thanjavur.
- In the edition — “yad āsanam ihocyate” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; Awasthi 1982).
  Also “tad āsanam ihocyate” — so in: Sarasvatī Bhavan 93786, Vārāṇasī.
  Also “teṣām ekaṃ pravakṣyāmi” — so in: GOML D-4346, Chennai.

Parallel passages in other texts:

- Haṭhapradīpikā 1.33: caturāśīti bhāṣitāni śivena kathitāni tu / tebhyaḥ catuṣkam ādāya sārabhūtaṃ bravīmy aham //
- Vivekamārtaṇḍa 5–7: āsanāni tu tāvanti yāvanto jīvajātayaḥ / eteṣāṃ caturāśīter ekaikaṃ samudāhṛtam //
- Śivasaṃhitā 3.100–101: caturāśītir āsanāni santi nānāvidhāni vai / tebhyaḥ samuddhṛtya caturvidhaṃ tu bravīmy aham //

Verse 35

The bodily arrangement of feet, thighs, hands, and the direction of gaze.

Devanagari

उत्तानौ चरणौ कृत्वा ह्युरुसंस्थौ प्रयत्नतः ।
ऊरुमध्ये तथोत्तानौ पाणी कृत्वा ततो दृशौ ॥ ३५ ॥

IAST

uttānau caraṇau kṛtvā hy urusaṃsthau prayatnataḥ / ūrumadhye tathottānau pāṇī kṛtvā tato dṛśau // 35 //

- Metre: Anuṣṭubh
- Edition translation (English):
  Having carefully placed both feet turned upward upon the thighs, and likewise having placed the hands turned upward in the middle of the thighs, [the yogin should] then [fix] both eyes […].
- Our rendering (Russian & English):
  English: Carefully placing both feet turned upwards onto the thighs, and likewise placing both hands palms upward between the thighs, then fix the eyes…
  Русский перевод: Тщательно расположив обе стопы подошвами вверх на бёдрах и точно так же поместив обе руки ладонями вверх между бёдер, затем [направь] взор…

Variant readings in the manuscripts:

- In the edition — “uttānau” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; GOML D-4346, Chennai; ORI Mysore P. 4341; Awasthi 1982).
  Also “uttānaṃ” — so in: Sarasvatī Bhavan 92595, Vārāṇasī.
- In the edition — “caraṇau kṛtvā hy urusaṃsthau” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107).
  Also “caraṇau kṛtvorusaṃsthau” (with internal sandhi kṛtvā + ūru-) — so in: Awasthi 1982; Adyar Library TR 484; and Haṭhapradīpikā 1.45.
  Also “ūrvoḥ saṃsthāpya yatnataḥ” — so in: Haṭharatnāvalī 3.36.

- In the edition — “ūrumadhye tathottānau” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; GOML D-4346, Chennai; Haṭhapradīpikā 1.45).
  Also “ūrumadhyaṃ tathottānau” — so in: Sarasvatī Bhavan 92595, Vārāṇasī.
- In the edition — “pāṇī kṛtvā tato dṛśau” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; Awasthi 1982; Haṭhapradīpikā 1.45).
  Also “kṛtvā pāṇī tato dṛśam” — so in: GOML D-4346, Chennai; TMSSML 6428, Thanjavur.
  Also “pāṇī nyasya tato dṛśau” — so in: Sarasvatī Bhavan 93786, Vārāṇasī.

Parallel passages & Testimonia:

- Directly borrowed in Haṭhapradīpikā 1.45: uttānau caraṇau kṛtvā ūrusaṃsthau prayatnataḥ / ūrumadhye tathottānau pāṇī kṛtvā tato dṛśau //
- Parallel in Śivasaṃhitā 3.102: uttānau caraṇau kṛtvā ūrusaṃsthau prayatnataḥ / ūrumadhye tathottānau hastau kṛtvā prayatnataḥ //
- Parallel in Haṭharatnāvalī 3.36: uttānau caraṇau kṛtvā ūrvoḥ saṃsthāpya yatnataḥ / ūrumadhye tathottānau pāṇī kṛtvā prayatnataḥ //
- Quoted in Yogacintāmaṇi f. 85v.

Verse 36

Fixing the gaze, raising the uvula with the tongue, chin lock, and gradual breath intake.

Devanagari

नासाग्रे विन्यसेद्राजदन्तमूलं च जिह्वया ।
उत्तभ्य चिबुकं वक्षःसंस्थाप्य पवनं शनैः ॥ ३६ ॥

IAST

nāsāgre vinyased rājadantamūlaṃ ca jihvayā / uttabhya cibukaṃ vakṣaḥsaṃsthāpya pavanaṃ śanaiḥ // 36 //

- Metre: Anuṣṭubh
- Edition translation (English):
  [He should] fix [the gaze] on the tip of the nose; and with the tongue having raised the root of the uvula, having set the chin on the chest, [he should draw in] the breath slowly […].
- Our rendering (Russian & English):
  English: Fix the eyes upon the tip of the nose; with the tongue raise the root of the uvula; placing the chin firmly against the chest, [draw in] the breath slowly…
  Русский перевод: [Йогин] должен зафиксировать взор на кончике носа; языком приподнять корень нёбного язычка; прижав подбородок к груди, [втягивать] дыхание медленно…

Variant readings in the manuscripts:

- In the edition — “nāsāgre vinyased” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; GOML D-4346, Chennai; Awasthi 1982; Haṭhapradīpikā 1.46).
  Also “nāsāgre saṃnyased” — so in: TMSSML 6428, Thanjavur.
  Also “nāsāgram avalokayet” — so in: Sarasvatī Bhavan 92595, Vārāṇasī.
- In the edition — “rājadantamūlaṃ ca jihvayā” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; GOML D-4346, Chennai; ORI Mysore P. 4341; Haṭhapradīpikā 1.46; Śivasaṃhitā 3.103).
  Also “rājadantamūle tu” — so in: BHU B-71, Vārāṇasī.
- In the edition — “uttabhya” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; Awasthi 1982; Haṭhapradīpikā 1.46).
  Also “utkṣipya” — so in: GOML D-4346, Chennai.
  Also “utstambhya” — so in: Sarasvatī Bhavan 92595, Vārāṇasī.
- In the edition — “cibukaṃ vakṣaḥsaṃsthāpya” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; Awasthi 1982; Haṭharatnāvalī 3.37).
  Also “cibukaṃ vakṣasy āsthāpya” — so in: Haṭhapradīpikā 1.46; GOML R17256/SR8080, Chennai.
  Also “cibukaṃ vakṣasy utthāpya” — so in: Yogacintāmaṇi f. 85v.
  Also “cibukaṃ vakṣasi nyasya” — so in: TMSSML 6428, Thanjavur.
- In the edition — “pavanaṃ śanaiḥ” (so in: all collated manuscripts; Haṭhapradīpikā 1.46; Śivasaṃhitā 3.103).

Parallel passages & Testimonia:

- Directly borrowed in Haṭhapradīpikā 1.46: nāsāgre vinyased rājadantamūlaṃ ca jihvayā / uttabhya cibukaṃ vakṣasy āsthāpya pavanaṃ śanaiḥ //
- Parallel in Śivasaṃhitā 3.103: nāsāgre vinyased dṛṣṭiṃ rājadantaṃ ca jihvayā / uttabhya cibukaṃ vakṣaḥsaṃsthāpya pavanaṃ śanaiḥ //
- Parallel in Haṭharatnāvalī 3.37: nāsāgre vinyased rājadantamūle ca jihvayā / uttabhya cibukaṃ vakṣaḥ saṃsthāpya pavanaṃ śanaiḥ //
- Quoted in Yogacintāmaṇi f. 85v (explicitly ascribed to Dattātreya).

Verse 37

Full inhalation to expand the abdomen, followed by controlled exhalation.

Devanagari

यथाशक्ति समाकृष्य पूरयेदुदरं शनैः ।
यथाशक्त्यैव पश्चात्तु रेचयेत्पवनं शनैः ॥ ३७ ॥

IAST

yathāśakti samākṛṣya pūrayed udaraṃ śanaiḥ / yathāśaktyeva paścāt tu recayet pavanaṃ śanaiḥ // 37 //

- Metre: Anuṣṭubh
- Edition translation (English):
  Having drawn it in according to his capacity, he should fill the abdomen slowly; and afterwards, according to his capacity, he should exhale the breath slowly.
- Our rendering (Russian & English):
  English: Drawing in [the breath] to the utmost of one's power, one should slowly fill the abdomen; and afterwards, to the utmost of one's power, slowly exhale the breath.
  Русский перевод: Втянув дыхание в меру своих возможностей, следует медленно наполнить живот; а затем, соразмерно силам, медленно выдохнуть дыхание.

Variant readings in the manuscripts:

- In the edition — "samākṛṣya" (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; GOML D-4346, Chennai; Awasthi 1982; Śivasaṃhitā 3.104).
  Also "samāpūrya" — so in: Sarasvatī Bhavan 93786, Vārāṇasī.
  Also "samākṛṣet" — so in: BHU B-71, Vārāṇasī.
- In the edition — "pūrayed udaraṃ śanaiḥ" (so in: all collated manuscripts; Śivasaṃhitā 3.104).
- In the edition — "yathāśaktyeva paścāt tu" (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; Awasthi 1982).
  Also "yathāśaktyā ca paścāt tu" — so in: Sarasvatī Bhavan 92595, Vārāṇasī.
  Also "paścācca recayet" — so in: GOML D-4346, Chennai; ORI Mysore P. 4341.
- In the edition — "recayet pavanaṃ śanaiḥ" (so in: all collated manuscripts; Śivasaṃhitā 3.104).

Parallel passages & Testimonia:

- Directly parallel in Śivasaṃhitā 3.104: yathāśakti samākṛṣya pūrayed udaraṃ śanaiḥ / yathāśaktyā tu paścācca recayet pavanaṃ śanaiḥ //
- Quoted in Yogacintāmaṇi f. 85v.

Verse 38

The fruition of Padmāsana: destroying all diseases and its rarity.

Devanagari

इदं पद्मासनं प्रोक्तं सर्वव्याधिविनाशनम् ।
दुर्लभं येन केनापि धीमता लभ्यते भुवि ॥ ३८ ॥

IAST

idaṃ padmāsanaṃ proktaṃ sarvavyādhivināśanam /
durlabhaṃ yena kenāpi dhīmatā labhyate bhuvi // 38 //

- Metre: Anuṣṭubh
- Edition translation (English):
  This is declared to be the lotus pose, the destroyer of all diseases. Hard to attain for just anyone, it is attained on earth by the wise.
- Our rendering (Russian & English):
  English: This is declared to be Padmāsana, the destroyer of all disease; difficult to attain for anyone, it is mastered on earth by the wise.
  Русский перевод: Сие провозглашено позой лотоса (Падмасаной), уничтожающей все болезни; недостижимая для кого попало, она обретается на земле мудрым.

Variant readings in the manuscripts:

- In the edition — “idaṃ padmāsanaṃ proktaṃ” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; Sarasvatī Bhavan 92595, Vārāṇasī; Awasthi 1982; Haṭhapradīpikā 1.47).
  Also “padmāsanam idaṃ proktaṃ” — so in: GOML D-4346, Chennai; ORI Mysore P. 4341; Śivasaṃhitā 3.105.
  Also “etan mantraṃ smṛtaṃ nāma” — so in: BHU B-71 (scribal corruption).
- In the edition — “sarvavyādhivināśanam” (so in: all collated manuscripts; Haṭhapradīpikā 1.47; Śivasaṃhitā 3.105; Haṭharatnāvalī 3.38).
- In the edition — “durlabhaṃ yena kenāpi” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; GOML D-4346, Chennai; Awasthi 1982; Haṭhapradīpikā 1.47; Śivasaṃhitā 3.105).
  Also “durlabhaṃ sarvajantūnāṃ” — so in: TMSSML 6428, Thanjavur.
- In the edition — “dhīmatā labhyate bhuvi” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; Awasthi 1982; Haṭhapradīpikā 1.47).
  Also “dhīmatā labhyate param” — so in: Śivasaṃhitā 3.105.
  Also “dhīmatāṃ labhyate bhuvi” — so in: GOML 18885, Chennai; Lalchand Research Library M-2089, Chandigarh.
  Also “labhyate dhīmatā bhuvi” — so in: BISM 64/919, Pune; Sarasvatī Bhavan 30051, Vārāṇasī.

Parallel passages & Testimonia:

- Verbatim in Haṭhapradīpikā 1.47: idaṃ padmāsanaṃ proktaṃ sarvavyādhivināśanam / durlabhaṃ yena kenāpi dhīmatā labhyate bhuvi //
- Parallel in Śivasaṃhitā 3.105: padmāsanam idaṃ proktaṃ sarvavyādhivināśanam / durlabhaṃ yena kenāpi dhīmatā labhyate param //
- Quoted in Haṭharatnāvalī 3.38 and Yogacintāmaṇi f. 85v (where Śivānandasarasvatī explicitly cites Dattātreya as the author).

End of Section 1: Philological Analysis & Commentary

Word-by-word analysis:

- 34. caturaśīti-lakṣeṣu (loc. pl. m./n.) — among the 84 lakhs, i.e. among 8,400,000 [среди 84 лакхов, то есть среди 8 400 000]; āsaneṣu (loc. pl. n.) — among the postures [среди асан / поз]; uttamam (acc. sg. n.) — the best, the supreme [наивысшую, лучшую]; śṛṇu (imperat. 2 sg. act. of √śru) — listen!, hear! [слушай!, внимай!]; ādināthena (instr. sg. m.) — by the Primal Lord (Śiva) [Первозданным Владыкой, Адинатхой]; saṃproktam (nom./acc. sg. n. ppp.) — proclaimed, taught [возвещенная]; yat (nom. sg. n. rel. pron.) — which [которая]; āsanam (nom. sg. n.) — posture [асана]; iha (ind.) — here [здесь]; ucyate (pres. pass. 3 sg. of √vac) — is described, is told [излагается, называется].
- 35. uttānau (acc. du. m.) — turned upwards, with soles facing up [вывернутые подошвами вверх]; caraṇau (acc. du. m.) — both feet [обе стопы]; kṛtvā (absolutive of √kṛ) — having placed, having made [расположив, сделав]; hi (ind. particle) — indeed [же, воистину]; ūru-saṃsthau (acc. du. m.) — resting upon the thighs (ūru + saṃ-stha) [помещенные на бёдра]; prayatnataḥ (ind. adv.) — carefully, with diligence [тщательно, со старанием]; ūru-madhye (loc. sg. n.) — in the middle of the thighs, between the thighs [между бёдер, посередине бёдер]; tathā (ind.) — likewise, similarly [также, подобным образом]; uttānau (acc. du. m.) — turned upwards, palms up [обращенные ладонями вверх]; pāṇī (acc. du. m.) — both hands [обе кисти рук]; kṛtvā (absolutive of √kṛ) — having placed [поместив]; tataḥ (ind.) — then, thereupon [затем, тогда]; dṛśau (acc. du. f.) — both eyes, the gaze of both eyes [оба глаза, взор обоих очей].
- 36. nāsā-agre (loc. sg. n.) — on the tip of the nose [на кончике носа]; vinyaset (opt. 3 sg. act. of vi-ni-√as) — one should fix, one should place [следует направить, зафиксировать]; rājadanta-mūlam (acc. sg. n.) — the root of the uvula (rājadanta = lit. “king-tooth”, uvula or back of upper palate; mūla = root) [корень нёбного язычка / верхнего нёба]; ca (ind.) — and [и]; jihvayā (instr. sg. f.) — with the tongue [языком]; uttabhya (absolutive of ud-√stambh) — having propped up, having raised upwards [подперев, приподняв вверх]; cibukam (acc. sg. n.) — the chin [подбородок]; vakṣaḥ-saṃsthāpya (absolutive / compound) — having placed firmly upon the chest (vakṣas + saṃ-sthāpya) [прижав плотно к груди]; pavanam (acc. sg. m.) — the wind, the breath [ветер, дыхание]; śanaiḥ (ind. adv.) — slowly, gently [медленно, постепенно].
- 37. yathā-śakti (ind. avyayībhāva compound) — according to one’s capacity/strength [по силе, в меру возможностей]; samākṛṣya (absolutive of sam-ā-√kṛṣ) — having drawn in completely [втянув, вдохнув]; pūrayet (opt. 3 sg. caus. of √pṝ) — one should fill [следует наполнить]; udaram (acc. sg. n.) — the belly, the abdomen [живот, брюшную полость]; śanaiḥ (ind. adv.) — slowly [медленно]; yathā-śaktyā / yathā-śakti (ind.) — according to capacity [по силе]; eva (ind.) — indeed, just so [же, именно]; paścāt (ind.) — afterwards, subsequently [затем, после того]; tu (ind.) — but, and [же, а]; recayet (opt. 3 sg.

caus. of √ric) — one should expel, exhale [следует выдохнуть]; pavanam (acc. sg. m.) — the breath [дыхание]; śanaiḥ (ind. adv.) — slowly [медленно].

- 38. idam (nom. sg. n. dem. pron.) — this [это]; padmāsanam (nom. sg. n.) — the lotus posture [поза лотоса, Падмасана]; proktam (nom. sg. n. ppp.) — is proclaimed, is called [называется, провозглашена]; sarva-vyādhi-vināśanam (nom. sg. n.) — destroying all diseases (sarva + vyādhi + vināśana) [уничтожающая все болезни]; durlabham (nom. sg. n.) — hard to attain, rare [труднодостижимая]; yena kenāpi (instr. sg. m. indef.) — by just anyone, by an ordinary person [кем попало, любым случайным человеком]; dhīmatā (instr. sg. m.) — by the wise, by the intelligent practitioner [мудрым, разумным]; labhyate (pres. pass. 3 sg. of √labh) — is attained, is achieved [обретается, достигается]; bhuvi (loc. sg. f. of bhū) — on earth, in this world [на земле, в подлунном мире].

Literal translation:

- English: Hear the best among the eighty-four lakh postures; which posture was proclaimed by Ādinātha, that is told here. Having placed the feet turned upwards upon the thighs with effort, likewise having placed the hands turned upwards in the middle of the thighs, then [the yogin] should fix both eyes on the tip of the nose; and having propped up the root of the uvula with the tongue, having placed the chin firmly on the chest, [drawing in] the wind slowly according to capacity, he should fill the belly slowly; and afterwards, according to capacity, he should exhale the wind slowly. This is declared to be Padmāsana, destroying all diseases; hard to attain by just anyone, it is attained on earth by the wise.
- Русский (буквальный): Среди восьмидесяти четырех лакхов асан внимай наилучшей: та асана, что была возвещена Адинатхой, излагается здесь. Расположив обе стопы вывернутыми вверх на бёдрах со старанием, равным образом расположив обе кисти рук вывернутыми вверх в середине бёдер, затем пусть устремит оба глаза на кончик носа; и языком подперев корень язычка, прижав подбородок к груди, медленно втянув дыхание в меру сил, пусть наполнит живот медленно; а затем, соразмерно силе, пусть выдохнет дыхание медленно. Это названо Падмасаной, разрушающей все недуги; труднодостижимая кем бы то ни было, она обретается на земле разумным.

Literary translation:

- English: Padmāsana, the Lotus Pose. Of the 8,400,000 postures taught in the universe, hear now the supreme one, revealed by Ādinātha. One places both feet sole-upward upon the thighs with care, and likewise rests both hands palm-upward between the thighs. Directing the gaze unswervingly to the tip of the nose, one presses the tongue up against the soft palate at the root of the uvula and locks the chin firmly down upon the chest. Then, drawing the breath inward smoothly to one’s full capacity, one gently inflates the abdomen, and thereafter exhales the breath with equal gentleness and control. This is Padmāsana, the sovereign remedy that destroys every bodily affliction—unattainable by the negligent, but mastered on earth by the truly resolute and wise.

- Русский (литературный): Падмасана — поза лотоса. Из всех восьми миллионов четырехсот тысяч асан внимай наивысшей, открытой первозданным Владыкой Адинатхой. Практикующий с должным старанием укладывает обе стопы подошвами вверх на противоположные бёдра, а ладони разворачивает вверх и опускает между бёдер. Зафиксировав неподвижный взгляд на кончике носа, он кончиком языка упирается вверх, поднимая корень нёбного язычка, и плотно прижимает подбородок к грудине. Затем, соразмеряя вдох со своими силами, он плавно и медленно наполняет воздухом брюшную полость, после чего столь же мягко и размеренно выдыхает. Сия поза именуется Падмасаной — сокрушительницей всех недугов; обычному человеку овладеть ею крайне нелегко, но мудрый и терпеливый непременно достигает в ней совершенства.

Editors' commentary:

1. The sole posture of the eightfold scheme: The Dattātreyayogaśāstra is the earliest known Sanskrit text to integrate the eight limbs (aṣṭāṅga) traditionally traced to Yājñavalkya with the bodily praxis of Haṭhayoga. Remarkable here is that although the text acknowledges the existence of 8,400,000 postures (caturaśītilakṣāṇi), it describes only Padmāsana. For Dattātreya, āsana does not denote gymnastic variety, but an unshakeable, locked seated posture capable of supporting the prolonged practice of internal breath control (prāṇāyāma) and channel purification (nāḍīśodhana).
2. Integrated bandhas and dṛṣṭi: The description in verses 35–37 is not merely an external bodily shape; it integrates three key Haṭha techniques directly into the posture:
   - Nāsāgradṛṣṭi — fixation of the visual focus on the tip of the nose to still mental fluctuations.
   - Jālandharabandha (described descriptively as cibukaṃ vakṣaḥsaṃsthāpya — pressing the chin to the chest) to seal the upper throat channel.
   - Tongue lock (rājadantamūlaṃ jihvayā uttabhya), an early archaic precursor to the internal sealing of the cranial cavity, preventing the escape of prāṇa and stabilizing the nectar of the palate.
3. The textual source of Haṭhapradīpikā 1.45–47: When Svātmārāma composed the Haṭhapradīpikā in the 15th century, he incorporated two descriptions of Padmāsana: the first (HP 1.44) was taken from the Vivekamārtaṇḍa (verse 8), describing the "bound" posture (baddhapadmāsana with hands crossed behind the back); the second (HP 1.45–47) was lifted verbatim from Dattātreyayogaśāstra verses 35–38. Svātmārāma recognized Dattātreya's formulation as the definitive technical standard for pairing Padmāsana with prāṇāyāma.

---

2. Śavāsana — the corpse pose in Layayoga

Verses: 24cd, 25, 26 (numbered 22cd–24 in the 1982 Awasthi edition; direct historical ancestor of Haṭhapradīpikā 1.32).

Verse 24cd

The bodily practice of lying motionless like a corpse for mental dissolution.

Devanagari

…
उत्तानशववद्भूमौ शयनं चोक्तमुत्तमम् ॥ २४ ॥

IAST

[savyadakṣiṇapādasyāṅguṣṭhe layam uttamam /] uttānaśavavad bhūmau śayanaṃ coktam uttamam // 24cd //

- Metre: Anuṣṭubh
- Edition translation (English, J. Mallinson 2024):
  Lying on the ground face upwards like a corpse is also said to be an excellent [method of dissolution].
- Our rendering (Russian & English):
  English: Lying supine on the ground like a corpse is declared to be an excellent [dissolution].
  Русский перевод: Лежание на земле навзничь, подобно мертвому телу, провозглашено наилучшим [растворением ума].

Variant readings in the manuscripts:

- In the edition — “uttānaśavavad” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; GOML D-4346, Chennai; Awasthi 1982; and the earliest Nepalese and Rajasthani manuscripts of the Haṭhapradīpikā: NGMPP B 62-20, Jodhpur 02235, GOML 18885).
  Also “uttānaṃ śavavad” — so in: Sarasvatī Bhavan 92595, Vārāṇasī; ORI Mysore P. 4341; and later vulgate witnesses of the Haṭhapradīpikā (HP 1.32).
  Also “śavavad bhūmitale” — so in: ORI Mysore P. 4341.
- In the edition — “bhūmau” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; GOML D-4346; Awasthi 1982; Haṭhapradīpikā 1.32).
  Also “pṛṣṭhe” — so in: BHU B-71, Vārāṇasī.
- In the edition — “śayanaṃ coktam uttamam” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; Awasthi 1982; Sarasvatī Bhavan 92595).
  Also “śayanaṃ ca layottamam” — so in: GOML D-4346, Chennai.
  Note on historical transformation: In Haṭhapradīpikā 1.32, Svātmārāma altered this quarter to “śayanaṃ tu śavāsanam”, thereby converting Dattātreya’s Layayoga dissolution technique into a named physical āsana.

Parallel passages & Testimonia:

- Direct textual source of Haṭhapradīpikā 1.32ab: uttānaśavavad bhūmau śayanaṃ tu śavāsanam /
- Parallel in Yogacintāmaṇi f. 84r and Yuktabhavadeva 6.21.
- Related tantric contemplation in Vijñānabhairavatantra 79: madhyajihve sphāritāsye madhye cetas tu cetayan / homaṃ kuryāt tathā bhūmau śayano jñānam āpnuyāt //

Verse 25

The conditions for success: isolation, profound bodily relaxation, and Śiva's teachings.

Devanagari

शिथिलो निर्जने देशे कुर्याच्चेत्सिद्धिमाप्नुयात् ।
एवं च बहुसंकेतान्कथयामास शंकरः ॥ २५ ॥

IAST

śithilo nirjane deśe kuryāc cet siddhim āpnuyāt / evaṃ ca bahu saṃketān kathayāmāsa śaṅkaraḥ // 25 //

- Metre: Anuṣṭubh
- Edition translation (English):
  If, deeply relaxed in a solitary place, one performs this, one will attain success. Thus did Śaṅkara teach numerous esoteric methods.
- Our rendering (Russian & English):
  English: If one performs this while relaxed in a solitary place, one attains perfection; thus Śaṅkara taught many esoteric methods.
  Русский перевод: Если, расслабившись в уединенном месте, практикующий выполняет это, он обретает совершенство (сиддхи); так Шанкара поведал множество тайных наставлений (самкет).

Variant readings in the manuscripts:

- In the edition — "śithilo" (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; Awasthi 1982).
  Also "śithilaṃ" — so in: Sarasvatī Bhavan 92595, Vārāṇasī.
  Also "viśrānto" — so in: BHU B-71, Vārāṇasī.
- In the edition — "nirjane deśe" (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; Awasthi 1982).
  Also "nirjane ca sthale yuktaḥ" — so in: GOML D-4346, Chennai.
- In the edition — "kuryāc cet siddhim āpnuyāt" (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; Awasthi 1982).
  Also "labhate siddhim uttamām" — so in: TMSSML 6428, Thanjavur; ORI Mysore P. 4341.

- In the edition — “evaṃ ca bahu saṃketān kathayāmāsa śaṅkaraḥ” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; Awasthi 1982).
  Also “evaṃ tu bahu saṃketāḥ kathitāḥ parameśinā” — so in: GOML D-4346, Chennai; ORI Mysore P. 4341.

Parallel passages:

- Cf. Amanaska 2.32–33 on dissolving intentional thought (saṃkalpa) in a quiet place.

Verse 26

The definition of Layayoga and transition to Haṭhayoga.

Devanagari

संकेतैर्बहुभिश्चान्यैर्यस्य चित्तलयो भवेत् ।
स एव लययोगः स्याद्धठयोगं ततः शृणु ॥ २६ ॥

IAST

saṃketair bahubhiś cānyair yasya cittalayo bhavet / sa eva layayogaḥ syād haṭhayogaṃ tataḥ śṛṇu // 26 //

- Metre: Anuṣṭubh
- Edition translation (English):
  That in which the dissolution of the mind occurs by means of these and many other esoteric signs is Layayoga. Listen next to Haṭhayoga!
- Our rendering (Russian & English):
  English: That in which the dissolution of the mind occurs through these and many other methods is Layayoga; now hear concerning Haṭhayoga.
  Русский перевод: То, при чем благодаря этим и многим другим тайным приемам происходит растворение ума (читта-лая), есть Лайя-йога; а теперь внимай Хатха-йоге!

Variant readings in the manuscripts:

- In the edition — “saṃketair bahubhiś cānyair” (so in: all collated manuscripts).
- In the edition — “yasya cittalayo bhavet” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; Awasthi 1982).
  Also “yena cittalayo bhavet” — so in: GOML D-4346, Chennai; TMSSML 6428, Thanjavur.
- In the edition — “sa eva layayogaḥ syāt” (so in: all collated manuscripts).
- In the edition — “haṭhayogaṃ tataḥ śṛṇu” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; GOML D-4346, Chennai).
  Also “karmayogaṃ tataḥ śṛṇu” — in Awasthi 1982 / BHU B-71 (a known printing/manuscript contamination found in some north Indian copies).

End of Section 2: Philological Analysis & Commentary

Word-by-word analysis:

- 24cd. uttāna-śava-vat (ind. compound adv. / adj.) — like a corpse laid face upwards (uttāna = supine, face up; śava = corpse; -vat = suffix of similitude) [подобно трупу, лежащему навзничь]; bhūmau (loc. sg. f. of bhūmi) — on the bare earth, on the ground [на земле]; śayanam (nom. sg. n.) — lying down, posture of repose [лежание, положение лёжа]; ca (ind.) — and, also [и, также]; uktam (nom. sg. n. ppp. of √vac) — is declared, is spoken of [сказано, названо]; uttamam (nom. sg. n.) — excellent, supreme [превосходным, наилучшим].
- 25. śithilaḥ (nom. sg. m.) — relaxed, loosened, free from tension [расслабленный, свободный от мышечного напряжения]; nirjane (loc. sg. m.) — unpopulated, solitary, uninhabited [безлюдном, уединенном]; deśe (loc. sg. m.) — in a place, in an area [в месте, в пространстве]; kuryāt (opt. 3 sg. act. of √kṛ) — if one should perform [если совершает / станет выполнять]; cet (ind. conditional particle) — if [если]; siddhim (acc. sg. f.) — accomplishment, perfection, siddhi [совершенство, сиддхи]; āpnuyāt (opt. 3 sg. act. of √āp) — one would attain, one achieves [обретет, достигнет]; evam (ind.) — thus, in this manner [так, таким образом]; ca (ind.) — and [и]; bahu (acc. pl. m.) — many [многие]; saṃketān (acc. pl. m.) — esoteric signs, conventions, meditative techniques (saṃketa) [тайные приемы, знаки, наставления]; kathayāmāsa (periphrastic perf. 3 sg. of kathaya-) — narrated, expounded [поведал, изрек]; śaṅkaraḥ (nom. sg. m.) — Śaṅkara, Śiva [Шанкара, Шива].
- 26. saṃketaiḥ (instr. pl. m.) — by esoteric signs, through secret techniques [тайными наставлениями, приемами]; bahubhiḥ (instr. pl. m.) — by many [многими]; ca (ind.) — and [и]; anyaiḥ (instr. pl. m.) — by other [другими]; yasya (gen. sg. m./n. rel. pron.) — of which, in whom [у кого, при котором]; citta-layaḥ (nom. sg. m.) — dissolution of the mind (citta = mind, consciousness; laya = dissolution, absorption) [растворение ума / мыслительной деятельности]; bhavet (opt. 3 sg. act. of √bhū) — may occur, happens [происходит, возникает]; saḥ (nom. sg. m. dem. pron.) — that [тот]; eva (ind.) — indeed, precisely [именно, поистине]; layayogaḥ (nom. sg. m.) — the yoga of dissolution (Layayoga) [Лайя-йога]; syāt (opt. 3 sg. act. of √as) — would be, is [есть, да будет]; haṭhayogam (acc. sg. m.) — the yoga of force (Haṭhayoga) [Хатха-йогу]; tataḥ (ind. adv.) — then, next [затем, далее]; śṛṇu (imperat. 2 sg. act. of √śru) — hear!, listen! [слушай!, внимай!].

Literal translation:

- English: Lying on the ground face upwards like a corpse is declared to be an excellent [dissolution]. If, relaxed, one should perform [this] in a solitary place, one would attain success. And thus Śaṅkara told many esoteric signs. That in which the dissolution of the mind should occur by means of many and other esoteric signs, that indeed is Layayoga. Listen next to Haṭhayoga!

- Русский (буквальный): Лежание на земле навзничь подобно мертвому телу названо наилучшим [растворением]. Расслабившись, в безлюдном месте если станет делать, совершенства достигнет. И так многие тайные знаки поведал Шанкара. То, при котором многими и другими тайными приемами растворение ума возникает, то именно есть Лайя-йога. Хатха-йогу затем слушай!

Literary translation:

- English: Śavāsana in Layayoga. Lying motionless upon the ground on one's back like a lifeless corpse is declared to be an exquisite method of spiritual dissolution. If the practitioner, free from all physical tension, surrenders the body in a secluded place undisturbed by people, he swiftly attains perfection. In this manner Lord Śiva revealed countless esoteric techniques. Whatever practice causes the total absorption and dissolution of the mind through these and other secret methods is known as Layayoga. Now listen to the teaching of Haṭhayoga!
- Русский (литературный): Шавасана в Лайя-йоге. Лежание на земле на спине совершенно неподвижно, уподобляясь мертвому телу, провозглашено великолепнейшим способом растворения ума. Если практикующий, полностью избавившись от телесного напряжения, предается этой практике в уединенном и тихом месте, он несомненно обретает совершенство. Так благой Владыка Шанкара поведал множество сокровенных наставлений. Та стезя, на которой благодаря этим и другим тайным ключам достигается полное растворение ментальных колебаний, именуется Лайя-йогой. А теперь внимай наставлению о Хатха-йоге!

Editors' commentary:

1. The earliest historical attestations: The Dattātreyayogaśāstra contains the earliest known explicit reference in yoga literature to lying flat on the back like a corpse (uttānaśavavad) as a formal spiritual technique.
2. From meditative saṃketa to physical āsana: In the Dattātreyayogaśāstra, this practice is not yet an āsana. It is classified under Layayoga as a saṃketa (an esoteric meditative method / contemplative trigger). Its purpose is strictly interior: to facilitate cittalaya (the collapse of discursive mental processes and egoic identification). When Svātmārāma compiled the Haṭhapradīpikā two centuries later (HP 1.32), he appropriated Dattātreya's half-verse verbatim (uttānaśavavad bhūmau śayanaṃ), but substituted śavāsanam for coktam uttamam, thereby elevating this contemplative resting state into the formal catalog of 15 physical āsanas, and adding that it relieves the exhaustion generated by physical postures (sarvāsanaśrāntiharam).

---

3. Viparītakaraṇī — the inverted action/posture in Haṭhayoga

Verses: 146, 147, 148, 149 (numbered 133–136 in the 1982 Awasthi edition; directly borrowed in Haṭhapradīpikā 3.79–82 and Śivasaṃhitā 4.69–72).

Verse 146

The therapeutic virtue of the inverted practice and the dramatic rekindling of the gastric fire.

Devanagari

करणं विपरीताख्यं सर्वव्याधिविनाशनम् ।
नित्यमभ्यासयुक्तस्य जठराग्निर्विवर्धते ॥ १४६ ॥

IAST

karaṇaṃ viparītākhyaṃ sarvavyādhivināśanam / nityam abhyāsayuktasya jaṭharāgnir vivardhate // 146 //

- Metre: Anuṣṭubh
- Edition translation (English, J. Mallinson 2024):
  The practice called the Inverted destroys all diseases. In one who is constantly devoted to its practice, the gastric fire increases.
- Our rendering (Russian & English):
  English: The technique called Viparīta (“the Inverted”) destroys all disease; in one who practises daily, the digestive fire blazes up.
  Русский перевод: Действие, именуемое «Перевёрнутым» (Випарита), уничтожает все болезни; у того, кто ежедневно предан упражнению, огонь пищеварения (джатхарагни) мощно возрастает.

Variant readings in the manuscripts:

- In the edition — “karaṇaṃ viparītākhyaṃ” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; GOML D-4346, Chennai; Awasthi 1982; Haṭhapradīpikā 3.79; Śivasaṃhitā 4.69).
  Also “viparītābhidhaṃ mudrāṃ” — so in: TMSSML 6428, Thanjavur.
- In the edition — “sarvavyādhivināśanam” (so in: all collated manuscripts; Haṭhapradīpikā 3.79).
  Also “sarvarogaharā parā” — so in: ORI Mysore P. 4341.
- In the edition — “nityam abhyāsayuktasya” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; Awasthi 1982; Haṭhapradīpikā 3.79).
  Also “nityābhyāsaratasyaiva” — so in: GOML D-4346, Chennai.
- In the edition — “jaṭharāgnir vivardhate” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; Awasthi 1982).
  In Haṭhapradīpikā 3.79: “jaṭharāgni-vivardhanam” (substantive compound).
  Also “jaṭharāgniḥ pravardhate” — so in: Sarasvatī Bhavan 92595, Vārāṇasī.

Parallel passages & Testimonia:

- Directly borrowed in Haṭhapradīpikā 3.79: karaṇaṃ viparītākhyaṃ sarvavyādhivināśanam / nityam abhyāsayuktasya jaṭharāgnivivardhanam //
- Parallel in Śivasaṃhitā 4.69.

- Included in the five mudrās chosen by Śārṅgadhara in the Śārṅgadharapaddhati (1363 CE).
- Quoted in Yogacintāmaṇi f. 62v and Haṭharatnāvalī 2.87.

Verse 147

The absolute necessity of abundant nutrition when performing inversions.

Devanagari

आहारो बहुलस्तस्य संपाद्यः सांकृते ध्रुवम् ।
अल्पाहारो यदि भवेदग्निर्दोहं करोति वै ॥ १४७ ॥

IAST

āhāro bahulas tasya saṃpādyaḥ sāṃkṛte dhruvam / alpāhāro yadi bhaved agnir dāhaṃ karoti vai // 147 //

- Metre: Anuṣṭubh
- Edition translation (English):
  Copious food must certainly be provided for him, O Sāṃkṛti. If he eats little food, the fire will indeed burn [him] up.
- Our rendering (Russian & English):
  English: Abundant food must certainly be supplied for him, O Sāṃkṛti! If his food is meager, the internal fire will burn up [his body].
  Русский перевод: Обильная пища непременно должна быть предоставлена ему, о Самкрити! Если же пищи будет мало, огонь начнет сжигать [его тело].

Variant readings in the manuscripts:

- In the edition — “āhāro bahulas tasya saṃpādyaḥ sāṃkṛte dhruvam” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; Awasthi 1982).
  Scribal Adaptation in Later Texts: In Haṭhapradīpikā 3.80, Svātmārāma removed the vocative address to Dattātreya’s interlocutor Sāṃkṛti, converting the pāda to: “āhāro bahulo grāhyaḥ sādhakasya kṣitau dhruvam”.
- In the edition — “saṃpādyaḥ” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; Awasthi 1982).
  Also “saṃgrāhyaḥ” — so in: GOML D-4346, Chennai.
- In the edition — “alpāhāro yadi bhaved” (so in: all collated manuscripts; Haṭhapradīpikā 3.80).
- In the edition — “agnir dāhaṃ karoti vai” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; Awasthi 1982; Sarasvatī Bhavan 92595).
  In Haṭhapradīpikā 3.80: “agnir dahati tatkṣaṇāt” (“the fire burns him instantly”).
  Also “śarīraṃ dahate’nalam” — so in: TMSSML 6428, Thanjavur.

Parallel passages & Testimonia:

- Adapted in Haṭhapradīpikā 3.80: āhāro bahulo grāhyaḥ sādhakasya kṣitau dhruvam / alpāhāro yadi bhaved agnir dahati tatkṣaṇāt //
- Quoted in Yogacintāmaṇi f. 62v.

Verse 148

The bodily orientation: head below, feet above, and gradual daily progression.

Devanagari

अधःशिराश्चोर्ध्वपादः क्षणं स्यात्प्रथमे दिने ।
क्षणात्तु किंचिदधिकमभ्यसेद्दिने दिने ॥ १४८ ॥

IAST

adhaḥśiraś cordhvapādaḥ kṣaṇaṃ syāt prathame dine / kṣaṇāt tu kiṃcid adhikaṃ abhyased dine dine // 148 //

- Metre: Anuṣṭubh
- Edition translation (English):
  With the head below and the feet above, [he should remain so] for a moment on the first day. From that moment, he should practise for a little more day by day.
- Our rendering (Russian & English):
  English: Head down and feet turned upward, one should stay for a moment on the first day; from that moment, one should practise a little longer day by day.
  Русский перевод: Головой вниз и подняв ноги вверх, в первый день следует оставаться лишь мгновение; [начиная] с этого мгновения, день за днем следует практиковать чуть дольше.

Variant readings in the manuscripts:

- In the edition — “adhaḥśiraś cordhvapādaḥ” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; Awasthi 1982).
  Also “adhaḥśirāś cordhvapādaḥ” — so in: Haṭhapradīpikā 3.81; Sarasvatī Bhavan 92595, Vārāṇasī.
  Also “adhaḥśirā cordhvapādaḥ” — so in: GOML D-4346, Chennai.
  Also “ūrdhvapādo hy adhaḥśīrṣaḥ” — so in: TMSSML 6428, Thanjavur.
- In the edition — “kṣaṇaṃ syāt prathame dine” (so in: all collated manuscripts; Haṭhapradīpikā 3.81).
  Also “kṣaṇam eva dine dine” — so in: BHU B-71, Vārāṇasī.
- In the edition — “kṣaṇāt tu kiṃcid adhikaṃ” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; Awasthi 1982).
  In Haṭhapradīpikā 3.81: “kṣaṇāc ca kiṃcid adhikaṃ”.
  Also “kṣaṇaṃ kṣaṇaṃ ca vardheta” — so in: ORI Mysore P. 4341.

- In the edition — “abhyased dine dine” (so in: all collated manuscripts; Haṭhapradīpikā 3.81).

Parallel passages & Testimonia:

- Directly borrowed in Haṭhapradīpikā 3.81: adhaḥśirāś cordhvapādaḥ kṣaṇaṃ syāt prathame dine / kṣaṇāc ca kiṃcid adhikaṃ abhyased dine dine //
- Quoted in Śārṅgadharapaddhati (1363 CE) and Haṭharatnāvalī 2.89.

Verse 149

The long-term effects: eradication of grey hair and wrinkles within six months.

Devanagari

वलिश्च पलितं चैव षण्मासोर्ध्वं न दृश्यते ।
याममात्रं तु यो नित्यमभ्यसेत्स तु योगवित् ॥ १४९ ॥

IAST

valiś ca palitaṃ caiva ṣaṇmāsordhvaṃ na dṛśyate / yāmamātraṃ tu yo nityam abhyaset sa tu yogavit // 149 //

- Metre: Anuṣṭubh
- Edition translation (English):
  After six months, wrinkles and grey hair are no longer seen [in him]. He who constantly practises it for three hours is indeed a knower of yoga.
- Our rendering (Russian & English):
  English: Wrinkles and grey hair are seen no more after six months; he who practises daily for a yāma (three hours) is truly a knower of yoga.
  Русский перевод: Спустя шесть месяцев более не видны морщины и седина; тот, кто ежедневно упражняется в течение одной ямы (трёх часов), поистине есть знаток йоги.

Variant readings in the manuscripts:

- In the edition — “valiś ca palitaṃ caiva” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; Awasthi 1982).
  Also “valiś ca palitaś caiva” — so in: Sarasvatī Bhavan 92595, Vārāṇasī.
  In Haṭhapradīpikā 3.82: “valitaṃ palitaṃ caiva”.
- In the edition — “ṣaṇmāsordhvaṃ na dṛśyate” (so in: all collated manuscripts; Haṭhapradīpikā 3.82).
  Also “ṣaṇmāsāt tu bhaved dhruvam” — so in: TMSSML 6428, Thanjavur.
- In the edition — “yāmamātraṃ tu yo nityam” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; Awasthi 1982).
  In Haṭhapradīpikā 3.82: “yāmapradīpam abhyāsaṃ”.
  Also “yāmamātraṃ tu yaḥ kuryāt” — so in: GOML D-4346, Chennai.

- In the edition — “abhyaset sa tu yogavit” (so in: MMSPP 1936, Jodhpur; Baroda 4107; Awasthi 1982; Sarasvatī Bhavan 92595).
  In Haṭhapradīpikā 3.82: “yaḥ karoti dine dine”.
  Also “sa bhavet sarvayogavit” — so in: ORI Mysore P. 4341.

Parallel passages & Testimonia:

- Adapted in Haṭhapradīpikā 3.82: valitaṃ palitaṃ caiva ṣaṇmāsordhvaṃ na dṛśyate / yāmapradīpam abhyāsaṃ yaḥ karoti dine dine //
- Quoted in Śārṅgadharapaddhati (1363 CE) and Haṭharatnāvalī 2.90.

End of Section 3: Philological Analysis & Commentary

Word-by-word analysis:

- 146. karaṇam (nom. sg. n.) — the action, technique, physical procedure [действие, прием, физическая процедура]; viparīta-ākhyam (nom. sg. n.) — named “inverted”, called Viparīta (viparīta = inverted, reversed; ākhyā = name) [именуемое «перевёрнутым»]; sarva-vyādhi-vināśanam (nom. sg. n.) — destroying all diseases [уничтожающее все болезни]; nityam (ind. adv.) — constantly, daily [постоянно, ежедневно]; abhyāsa-yuktasya (gen. sg. m.) — of one devoted to practice (abhyāsa + yukta) [у преданного практике]; jaṭhara-agniḥ (nom. sg. m.) — the fire of the belly, gastric/digestive fire [огонь живота, пищеварительный огонь]; vivardhate (pres. mid. 3 sg. of vi-√vṛdh) — increases, blazes up [разрастается, усиливается].
- 147. āhāraḥ (nom. sg. m.) — food, nourishment [пища, питание]; bahulaḥ (nom. sg. m.) — abundant, copious, copious amount [обильная, в большом количестве]; tasya (gen. sg. m. dem. pron.) — for him, of him [для него, у него]; saṃpādyaḥ (nom. sg. m. gdve. of sam-√pad) — must be provided, must be procured [должна быть обеспечена / предоставлена]; sāṃkṛte (voc. sg. m.) — O Sāṃkṛti! (addressing the disciple) [о Самкрити!]; dhruvam (ind. adv.) — certainly, without fail [непременно, наверняка]; alpa-āhāraḥ (nom. sg. m.) — one having little food, scanty food [скудная пища, малоедение]; yadi (ind. conj.) — if [если]; bhavet (opt. 3 sg. act. of √bhū) — should be [будет]; agniḥ (nom. sg. m.) — the fire [огонь]; dāham (acc. sg. m.) — burning, conflagration [сжигание, ожог]; karoti (pres. act. 3 sg. of √kṛ) — makes, performs [совершает]; vai (ind. emphatic particle) — indeed, surely [воистину, непременно].
- 148. adhaḥ-śiraḥ (nom. sg. m. bahuvrīhi) — whose head is down (adhas = below; śiras = head) [обращенный головой вниз]; ca (ind.) — and [и]; ūrdhva-pādaḥ (nom. sg. m. bahuvrīhi) — whose feet are up (ūrdhva = upwards; pāda = foot) [обращенный стопами вверх]; kṣaṇam (acc. sg. m. of time) — for a moment, for an instant [на мгновение]; syāt (opt. 3 sg. act. of √as) — should be, let him remain [пусть пребудет]; prathame (loc. sg. n.) — on the first [в первый]; dine (loc. sg. n.) — on the day [день]; kṣaṇāt (abl. sg. m.) — from that moment [от того мгновения]; tu (ind.) — and, but [же]; kiñcit (ind. adv.) — a little [чуть-чуть, немного]; adhikam (acc. sg. n.) — more, exceeding [больше, дольше]; abhyaset

(opt. 3 sg. act. of abhi-√as) — one should practise [следует практиковать]; dine dine (loc. sg. n. repeated) — day after day, daily [день ото дня, ежедневно].

- 149. valiḥ (nom. sg. f.) — wrinkle, fold of skin [морщина, дряблость кожи]; ca (ind.) — and [и]; palitam (nom. sg. n.) — greyness of hair, grey hair [седина]; ca (ind.) — and [и]; eva (ind.) — indeed, even [же, воистину]; ṣaṇ-māsa-ūrdhvam (ind. adv.) — after six months (ṣaṣ = six; māsa = month; ūrdhvam = after, beyond) [по истечении шести месяцев]; na (ind. neg.) — not [не]; dṛśyate (pres. pass. 3 sg. of √dṛś) — is seen, is observed [видится, наблюдается]; yāma-mātram (acc. sg. n. adv. of time) — for the duration of a single yāma (approx. 3 hours) [в течение одной ямы, то есть около трёх часов]; tu (ind.) — indeed [же]; yaḥ (nom. sg. m. rel. pron.) — who, whoever [кто, который]; nityam (ind. adv.) — constantly, daily [ежедневно]; abhyaset (opt. 3 sg. act. of abhi-√as) — should practise [практикует]; saḥ (nom. sg. m. dem. pron.) — he [тот]; tu (ind.) — indeed [же]; yogavit (nom. sg. m.) — knower of yoga (yoga + vid) [знаток йоги].

Literal translation:

- English: The practice named Inverted is the destroyer of all diseases. In one endowed with daily practice, the gastric fire increases. Copious food must certainly be procured for him, O Sāṃkṛti! If there should be little food, the fire indeed causes burning. Head below and feet above, he should be for a moment on the first day. From that moment, day by day, he should practise a little more. After six months, wrinkles and greyness of hair are no longer seen. Whoever should constantly practise it for the measure of a yāma (three hours), he indeed is a knower of yoga.
- Русский (буквальный): Действие, называемое «Перевёрнутым», есть уничтожитель всех болезней. У наделенного ежедневной практикой желудочный огонь разрастается. Обильная пища для него должна быть обеспечена, о Самкрити, непременно! Если будет мало пищи, огонь поистине производит сожжение. Головой вниз и стопами вверх пусть будет на мгновение в первый день. Начиная с мгновения, день ото дня пусть практикует чуть больше. Свыше шести месяцев морщина и седина не видятся. В продолжение всего лишь ямы (трех часов) кто ежедневно упражняется, тот воистину есть знаток йоги.

Literary translation:

- English: Viparītakaraṇī — The Inverted Technique. The physical procedure known as Viparīta (“the Inversion”) is the supreme cure for all bodily afflictions. In a practitioner who applies himself to it daily, the inner digestive fire (jaṭharāgni) blazes up with tremendous force. Therefore, O Sāṃkṛti, substantial and nourishing food must unfailingly be provided for him; if his sustenance is inadequate, the ravenous digestive fire will turn inward and consume his own flesh. Inverting the physical frame—placing the head down upon the ground and pointing the feet skyward—one should remain for merely a brief moment on the very first day. Then, day by day, one must steadily and incrementally extend the duration of the practice. When one perseveres for six months, wrinkles of the skin and graying of the hair completely vanish from the body. He who is able to sustain this inverted posture unbroken for a full yāma (three hours) each day has truly mastered the art of yoga.

- Русский (литературный): Випарита-карани — перевёрнутое действие. Психофизическое упражнение, именуемое «Перевёрнутым» (Випарита), искореняет абсолютно все болезни. У того, кто регулярно посвящает себя ему, внутренний огонь пищеварения (джатхарагни) разгорается с колоссальной силой. Посему, о Самкрити, практикующий должен быть непременно обеспечен щедрой и обильной пищей; если же питания окажется недостаточно, разбушевавшийся внутренний огонь начнет сжигать само его тело. Перевернув тело — опустив голову вниз и устремив стопы кверху, — в самый первый день следует пробыть в этом положении всего лишь краткое мгновение. Затем день ото дня длительность удержания позы следует осторожно и постепенно увеличивать. По истечении шести месяцев непрерывных занятий у йогина без следа исчезают морщины и седина. А тот, кто способен удерживать это положение ежедневно на протяжении целой ямы (около трёх часов), по праву именуется истинным знатоком йоги.

Editors' commentary:

1. The internal alchemy of the sun and moon: In early Haṭhayoga physiology (first formulated in the Amṛtasiddhi and systematized here in the Dattātreyayogaśāstra), the body is governed by an inverted cosmic axis:
   - The Moon (candra) resides in the palate/head, constantly secreting the immortal nectar of life (bindu* / amṛta*).
   - The Sun (sūrya / agni) resides in the navel/belly, its upward-reaching flames devouring this falling nectar, which leads to physical decay, graying, wrinkling, and death. By physically standing on the head/shoulders (adhaḥśiraś cordhvapādaḥ), the spatial relation is literally inverted: the moon is now below and the sun is above. Gravity prevents the nectar from falling into the fire, allowing the practitioner to preserve bindu and achieve bodily rejuvenation.
2. The ferocious blaze of the digestive fire: Because the downward drain of nectar is stopped and the solar fire in the abdomen is fanned, the metabolic furnace blazes intensely. Dattātreya specifically warns his disciple Sāṃkṛti that the yogin must consume substantial food (āhāro bahulaḥ). If insufficient fuel is ingested, the body enters auto-catabolism (agnir dāhaṃ karoti).
3. From Mudrā to modern Āsana: In the Dattātreyayogaśāstra, Viparītakaraṇī is classified as a mudrā (or karaṇa) because its purpose is energetic: the seal/lock and reversal of fluids. In later centuries, this technique evolved directly into what modern hatha and postural yoga calls Viparīta Karaṇī Āsana and forms the conceptual root of inverted postures such as Śīrṣāsana (headstand) and Sarvāṅgāsana (shoulderstand).

Comparative Concordance: Dattātreyayogaśāstra and Haṭhapradīpikā

The table below demonstrates how Svātmārāma directly utilized the Dattātreyayogaśāstra as his primary textual source when drafting the Haṭhapradīpikā (c. 1400–1450 CE):

Posture / Technique	Dattātreyayogaśāstra (c. 1200 CE)	Haṭhapradīpikā (Oxford Ed., 2024)	Nature of Textual Adaptation
Padmāsana	Verses 34–38 (caturaśītilakṣeṣv… uttānau caraṇau… nāsāgre vinyased…)	Verses 1.45–47 (uttānau caraṇau… nāsāgre vinyased… idaṃ padmāsanaṃ…)	Direct Verbatim Borrowing: Svātmārāma lifted verses 35–38 almost word-for-word, integrating Dattātreya's seated prāṇāyāma foundation as his second description of the lotus pose.
Śavāsana	Verse 24cd (uttānaśavavad bhūmau śayanaṃ coktam uttamam)	Verse 1.32 (uttānaśavavad bhūmau śayanaṃ tu śavāsanam / sarvāsanaśrānti …)	Structural Elevation: Dattātreya's Layayoga saṃketa for mental dissolution (cittalaya) was converted into a named physical āsana, and augmented with a second line on relieving fatigue.
Viparītakaraṇī	Verses 146–149 (karaṇaṃ viparītākhyaṃ… āhāro bahulas tasya saṃpādyaḥ sāṃkṛte…)	Verses 3.79–82 (karaṇaṃ viparītākhyaṃ… āhāro bahulo grāhyaḥ sādhakasya…)	Editorial Adaptation: Svātmārāma borrowed the 4-verse description of the inversion,

Posture / Technique	Dattātreyayogaśāstra (c. 1200 CE)	Haṭhapradīpikā (Oxford Ed., 2024)	Nature of Textual Adaptation
			removing the personal address to disciple Sāṃkṛti and slightly refining the compound jaṭharāgni-vivardhanam.

Textological Summary of Manuscript Transmission

1. The Southern Recension (M1, M2, A, P, T): Transmitted primarily in Grantha characters on palm-leaf folios across Tamil Nadu and Karnataka. These witnesses preserve an older textual stratum. In verse 34, they read śivena kathitaṃ yat tu instead of ādināthena, and consistently maintain the full vocative addresses to Sāṃkṛti.
2. The Northern & Western Recension (Jodhpur, Baroda, Vārāṇasī, Awasthi): Transmitted on paper in Devanāgarī. These witnesses introduced standardization towards standard classical Sanskrit forms (such as adjusting the sandhi kṛtvorusaṃsthau in Awasthi and Baroda). They share close textual affinities with the manuscripts consulted by the 17th-century commentator Śivānandasarasvatī for his Yogacintāmaṇi.
3. Omission of intermediate gymnastic poses: The absence of the 11 non-seated āsanas (such as Mayūrāsana, Kukkuṭāsana, Dhanurāsana) in the Dattātreyayogaśāstra is not an accidental loss or manuscript defect; it proves that in the 13th-century Deccan, physical yoga was structured around seated meditation postures for prāṇāyāma (Padmāsana), somatic relaxation for dissolution (Śavāsana), and internal fluid-reversal mudrās (Viparītakaraṇī). The synthesis with external gymnastic poses was a later development of the 14th-century Śārṅgadharapaddhati and 15th-century Haṭhapradīpikā.